106 released Sunday; 34 today

Reds free 140 more POWs

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Viet Cong released 34 more prisoners of war in Hanoi today, including the only foreign woman held by the Communists, and a U.S. Air Force hospital plane brought them to Clark Air Base for a presidential welcome.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos was on hand because two Filipino employes of the Voice of America were among those freed, along with 27 American military men, three American civilians and two West German medical workers.

One of the Germans was nurse Monika Schwinn, 30, who was captured near Da Nang April 27, 1969.

It was the second prisoner release in two days. On Sunday, the North Vietnamese freed 106 Americans and two Thais in Hanoi.

First off the plane today was the ranking American military member of the group, Army Capt. Stephen R. Leopold, 28, of Milwaukee, Wis.

"My God, you don't know how good it is to be free, how good it is to be home," he said in a brief speech.

The POWs were dressed in the same gray shirts and dark slacks that other prisoners who have returned from Hanoi have worn.

All but one of the American military men smartly saluted the American flag before stepping down the ramp to be greeted by Marcos, Adm. Noel Gayler, commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific; U.S. Ambassador Henry A Byroade, and the commander of the 13th Air Force, Lt. Gen. William G. Moore Jr.

Marine Sgt. Frank E. Cius Jr., 36, who was captured June 3, 1967, saluted Gayler as he stepped down but not the colors. He was the only POW to be released so far for whom the military has not announced a home town. They said this was done at the request of his family.

Also on the flight were five members of the armed forces radio television network captured in Hue during the Tet offensive on Feb. 3, 1968.

They were Marine Capt. James V. Dibernardo, 38, of Mission Viejo, Calif., commander of the unit, Army Spec. 5 Jose M. Astorga, 22, of San Diego, Calif.; Army S.Sgt. John A. Deering, 30, of Durham, N.C., Army S.Sgt. Harry L. Ettmueller, 29, of Pleasantville, N.J., and M.Sgt. Donat Joseph Gouin, 44, of Lima, Ohio.

The three American civilians were Clodeon Adkins, 57, of Homeland, Calif., Michael Dennis Benge, 37, of Heppner, Ore. and Lawrence J. Stark, 37, of Chicago, Ill. All were captured during the Tet offensive in 1968.

Miss Schwinn, who was working for the Maltese Aid Service Mission when she was captured, managed a brief smile as she stepped into the glare of the television lights.

The formality that had marked the first part of the arrival quickly disappeared as the two men were smothered in the arms of their families. Balagot was greeted by his wife and all eight of his children.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong now have freed 299 Americans since the Jan. 28 cease-fire. Today was the first time the Viet Cong have released any prisoners at Hanoi, their previous release of 20 Americans on Feb. 12 occured north of Saigon.

The Communists still hold 286 Americans, all of whom are to be released by March 28.

All the U.S. airmen freed Sunday appeared healthy as they stepped from the three planes that brought them from Hanoi. They celebrated their freedom at Clark Field's 270-bed military hospital by calling wives and family members in the United States and devouring huge amounts of steak, fried eggs and ice cream.

Several of the freed POWs also held a 15-minute religious service in the hospital's Red Cross lounge shortly after arrival.

"We returned from war to freedom only America can give," Navy Cmdr. Eugene B. McDaniel, 41, of Virginia Beach, Va., said in a sermon during the service.

Money marts close; seek pact

BRUSSELS (AP) — The foreign exchange markets of the nine Common Market members will be closed all this week as the world's richest countries prepare for more talks later this week, seeking a solution to the dollar crisis.

The Common Market's finance ministers met Sunday at their headquarters in Brussels and decided to extend the market closing they had ordered last Thursday night. But they failed to agree on a joint program to protect their currencies.

The ministers said they would meet again Thursday in Brussels. They announced another conference for Paris on Friday to which the United States, Japan and other major trading nations would be invited. And the nine said they would meet again in Brussels next Sunday.

The U.S. Treasury said that it wants to cooperate with the other major trading nations in solving the monetary crisis. But it stopped short of promising to participate in the conference Friday.

Japan joined the European countries in closing its foreign exchange market for the week. The halt to official trading takes the pressure off the state banks, which last week spent billions to keep the U.S. dollar from falling below its floor.

The dollar was devalued 10 per cent on Feb. 12. Closing the exchanges means there will not be any agency enforcing a fixed set of exchange rates during the week's trading on private money markets.

The Common Market finance ministers said the assault on the dollar "was due to a distrust of speculative origin" and was not justified by the official exchange rates.

Valery Giscard D'Estaing, the French finance minister, told newsmen the European governments were "eager to defend the present set of parities.... We do not want to let the European currencies float upward as this would affect our competitiveness."

Other informants said there had been sentiment among the ministers for a float. But they could not agree whether their currencies should float individually or be fixed against each other and float jointly against the dollar.

30 Cardinals named; three are Americans

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI elevated 30 prelates of the Roman Catholic Church to the College of Cardinals today and revealed two others elevated in 1969 whose identities he had kept secret because they were in Communist countries.

The two cardinals named "in pectore" were Bishop Stepan Trochta, 68, of Litomerice, Czechoslovakia, and Bishop Juliu Hossu of Cluy-Gherla, Romania.

Bishop Hossu died in 1970, and relations have since improved between the Vatican and Czechoslovakia's Communist government.

The Pope also announced that he may make provision for representatives of the Synod of Bishops to sit with the College of Cardinals in its conclaves to elect a new pontiff. Such conclaves heretofore have been confined exclusively to the cardinals.

The day's schedule included the private consistory at which the Pope notified the college of its new members, the public consistory at which the new princes of the church pledged loyalty and obedience to the pontiff and received their red hats from him and a mass at which the Pope was to present the new cardinals their sapphire rings.

In the past, each of these has been held on a separate day. But Pope Paul, having already eliminated such consistory trappings as sword bearers, gentlemen in waiting and special robes, reduced the pomp of the occasion more by concentrating them in one day.

Three Americans were among the new cardinals— Archbishops Luis Aponte Martines, 50, of San Juan; Timothy Manning, 63, of Los Angeles, and Humberto Medeiros, 57, of Boston. Archbishop Aponte is the first Puerto Rican cardinal.

It was the fourth consistory in the 10-year-old reign of Pope Paul, and it brought younger men and more nations into the church's senate, which elects its popes. It also raised the total membership of the Sacred College to 145 cardinals, its largest in history.

The practice of keeping the identity of new cardinals secret by naming them "in pectore," or within the pope's breast, has been used from time to time when their public designation might endanger their safety.

France faces hot political runoff vote

PARIS (AP) — France plunged into a week of political trading today after the Communist-Socialist alliance made the expected strong gains at the expense of President Georges Pompidou's Gaullists in the first round Sunday of the National Assembly elections.

The embattled Gaullists were trying to enlist the support of the centrist Reform Movement and other nonleftist opposition groups for the runoff next Sunday. Communist and Socialist leaders were working to swing Socialist voters behind the Communist candidates in districts where the latter ran ahead.

Most Gaullist bigwigs were elected Sunday or went into the runoff, but that meant little.

The returns from the first round were comparable to those in the first round of the 1967 elections, which the Gaullists came out of with a majority of only one vote. They were way below the Gaullist landslide in 1968, after the May student riots, when droves of frightened French voters turned to President Charles de Gaulle to save them.

The Communists and Socialists took 40.5 per cent of the vote Sunday to 38.1 per cent for the Gaullists and their allies and 12.5 per cent for the Reform Movement. The Gaullist share was 44 per cent in the first round in 1968 and 38.3 in 1967.

Chilean vote changes little

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The moderate-conservative opposition to President Salvador Allende has retained control of the Chilean Congress, but failed to make the gains necessary to impeach the Marxist chief executive.

With 50 per cent of the vote in Sunday's election counted, the opposition had collected 53.62 per cent of the house of Deputies votes to 41 per cent for the leftist government coalition. The division was 56.79-41.50 per cent in the Senate races. A splinter party and spoiled ballots accounted for the other percentages.

Peace meeting in tepee planned at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Peace talks in a tepee were scheduled today at Wounded Knee, a hamlet held since Tuesday by militant Indians who have burned a government proposal to end the armed stand-off.

The Justice Department proposed late Sunday that the 200 Indians who invaded Wounded Knee could depart with no threat of arrest beginning at 10 a.m. EST today.

The federal offer stipulated the Indians must depart without their weapons and that only males must identify themselves as they pass through federal lines.

Federal officials said a grand jury investigation at a later date would determine if charges were warranted.

The Indians, led by officials of the American Indian Movement, jeered at the proposal in their camp Sunday night. They burned the paper on which the offer was written.

"We decided the Indian people are more important to us than jail terms," said Carter Camp, an AIM leader. "We've got to force the government to come to terms with us."

About the same time, the Indians offered a peace proposal under which they would remain in this village where 146 Sioux and 31 U.S. soldiers died in an 1890 showdown.

The Indians also proposed negotiations for supplies and said that any federal arraignments or legal actions should be held here. They asked all civil rights and peace movement volunteers to gather here.

The Indians' announcement Sunday of their determination to stay here came after a meeting with New York attorney William Kunstler, who arrived earlier in the day.

Late Sunday, a Justice Department spokesman declined comment on the AIM proposal and announced that peace talks started Sunday would resume at noon EST today in a tepee. The tepee is on no-man's land between the Indian outposts and the perimeter of 150 federal lawmen surrounding Wounded Knee.

Plane crash fatal to 53

NANTES, France (AP) — Two London-bound Spanish airliners collided in flight near here today and one crashed, killing at least 53 persons. The other made an emergency landing at a military air base at Cognac, 125 miles away.

The wreckage of an Iberia Airlines twin jet DC9 was found spread over a wide area of agricultural land. It had been Flight 504 from Mahon, on Minorca Island, to London via Palma.

The other plane was a Coronado four-jet plane belonging to the Spanish charter company Spantex. It had been due in London half an hour after the accident happened.

It was not immediately known how many people were aboard the planes. They can carry a total of about 265 passengers.

The accident occurred while the air routes over France were in the control of the military, who took over from civilian technicians after they went on strike two weeks ago.

The collision apparently happened at high altitude. The Coronado made it to Cognac trailing smoke and the passengers were evacuated safely, officials there said.

Rubble searched for missing men

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) — Search operations are continuing near the rubble of a partially collapsed apartment building where five construction workers died and nine others are missing.

Wrecking crews Sunday demolished a 24-story section of the structure so searchers would not be endangered, Fairfax County officials said.

Another 24-story section has slabs of concrete dangling above the ground held by twisted sections of steel reinforcing rods.

SLAIN — George C. Moore, above, who headed the U.S. diplomatic representation in the Sudan before Ambassador Cleo Noel arrived, was slain, along with Noel and a Belgian was gravely wounded by "Black September" terrorists who had taken them hostage.

Plan inspection of wild horse slaughter scene

HOWE, Idaho (AP) — Federal officials planned an inspection today of the scene of a mountain roundup where Humane Society officials say one of the area's last wild horse herds was destroyed.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Boise said the carcasses of 8 to 10 horses were found at the bottom of a 200-foot cliff about 80 miles west of Idaho Falls.

The officials would not comment on the destroyed animals, found at the 9,000-foot level of the Lemhi Mountains, but said at least 30 other horses were forced down the mountains with their nostrils wired to restrict breathing and render them controllable.

Nixon seeks $2.3 billion for new community grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that the cities' hour of crisis has passed, President Nixon says he wants $2.3 billion for broad community-development revenue-sharing grants to state and local government.

In a radio speech Sunday previewing a special message to be submitted to the Senate and House this week, Nixon said his latest budget eliminates seven urban-development programs and suspends four housing programs he described as outmoded and ineffective.

To replace these, he urged Congress to enact a "Better Communities Act," saying:

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development. Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington was spending it if they like. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval."

Touching on other points that will be covered in the message, Nixon said:

—"I propose that our states and communities be given the right to use a designated portion of the Highway Trust Fund for capital improvements in urban public transportation, including improvements in bus and rapid rail systems.

—"In the field of housing, we must stop programs that have been turning the federal government into a nationwide slumlord. One of my highest domestic priorities this year will be the development of new policies that eliminate waste and target aid to genuinely needy families.

—"Another key recommendation is our $110-million proposal to help state and local governments build up their administrative skills and planning expertise."

—Nixon called for the third year in a row for creation of a new "Department of Community Development" to "hold together programs which are now scattered among different departments or agencies."

The President, who taped the speech, flew to Camp David, Md., Sunday with his personal secretary Rose Mary Woods, and his Florida neighbor, Bebe Rebozo, for an overnight stay.

Bodies of U.S. diplomats brought home

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Diplomats, Sudanese officials and newsmen wept openly today as a U.S. presidential plane left Khartoum to take home the bodies and families of two U.S. diplomats murdered by Palestinian guerrillas.

The burlap-wrapped bodies of U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr. and Charge d'Affaires G. Curtis Moore were carried from the blood-spattered Saudi Arabian Embassy on Sunday. The eight guerrillas surrendered to Sudanese authorities after holding out for 60 hours.

The terrorists also killed the elgian charge d'affaires, Guy Eid, but freed Jordanian Charge Adley el Nasser, Saudi Ambassador Abdullah Malhouk and his wife unharmed.

A band softly played Auld Lang Syne as the flag-draped coffins were lifted into the Boeing jet shortly after dawn, and the grieving families said goodbye to the long line of well wishers.

Two U.S. Marines in dress blues flanked each casket, but otherwise there was no ceremony.

President Jaafar al Numairi assigned Minister of Reform Abdul Rahman Abdul Ilah to accompany the bodies of Noel and Moore and to present Sudan's condolences to President Nixon.

In Washington, the State Department said the plane would arrive at Andrews Air Force Base about 4 p.m. EST. The two diplomats will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The eight guerrillas, members of the Black Septemberist faction of the Palestine liberation movement, were held at a Khartoum army headquarters.

President Numairi cabled President Nixon that he would deal firmly with them. "We find the killing of these men outrageous," he said.

A high-ranking member of the Sudanese government told diplomats privately: "The guerrillas are already dead men."

More than 100 paratroopers surrounded the embassy Sunday as the eight Palestinians, described as between 19 and 25 years old, emerged from the building flashing victory signs.

In a statement issued in Beirut, Black September said the guerrillas surrendered "because of the high esteem we hold" for Numairi.

"We leave them in trust in his hands," the statement said. "We are confident they will be treated as true revolutionary fighters."

Armed with machine guns, grenades and revolvers, the guerrillas invaded the embassy during a reception Thursday night and demanded the release of a number of Palestinians held in various countries. It soon became apparent, however, that their chief goal was freedom for guerrilla leader Mohammed Daoud Odeh and 19 other members of the Palestinian movement under death sentence in Jordan.

None of the terrorists' demands were met, and King Hussein of Jordan on Sunday confirmed the death sentence against Daoud and his associates.

See epidemic of typhoid in Florida

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — A "voluntary quarantine" has been imposed on a migrant farm labor camp here in an attempt to halt a local epidemic of typhoid found in 15 of 107 persons sent to hospitals for testing.

The 2,000 residents "are allowed to leave the camp to buy food or work but that's about all," Dade County Public Health Director Dr. Milton Saslaw said Sunday. "They've been ordered to stay in the camp."

Health officials said the number of confirmed typhoid cases from a contaminated water supply at the camp had risen to 15 but there had been no deaths reported since the outbreak a week ago.

Prison letters filled with POW yearning

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — In letters filled with yearning for the lost years, a Navy flier promised his three daughters he'd make up for having deprived them of a father while he was a captive of the North Vietnamese.

"I remember well you were angry with me the last time I was gone a few months," wrote Lt. Cmdr. Michael D. Christian to his 13-year-old daughter, Debbie, in a letter slipped from the Vietnamese prison dubbed "The Hanoi Hilton."

"Now with six years, you have a right to be pretty sore at me."

Christian, among the freed prisoners who landed Sunday in the Philippines, got the letters out several weeks ago through a POW released in the first group.

For three years after he was shot down April 24, 1966, Christian was never allowed to write, and his family did not know he was alive. Since then, letters have been rare.

The letters are also rare in that they are among the few ever written at length from a North Vietnam POW camp. For years Hanoi allowed only six lines and only recently have they allowed seven lines.

"I'll be a slow horse on a fast track for awhile but I'm counting on you to bring me up to speed with what appears to be a modern generation," he wrote to Debbie.

"You must be so big now ... high school. Wow! After looking at your last picture everyone (fellow POWs) tells me I'd better get a shotgun.... I've recently heard bits and pieces of what my world is like now. I'm counting on you to bring me up to speed with what appears to be a modern generation. I doubt I will ever understand your language. You'll have to teach me the new words so we can communicate."

"I'm very curious to things in which you have any interest, history, literature, homemaking, boys ... boys. There's a bet. Boys must be a part of your like by now. A teen-ager's "affair d'amour"—what a wonderful time of life...."

"When you see me, sweetheart, I hope to appear fairly normal. I think I am quite sound and normal...."

Christian wrote his youngest child, 8-year-old Pamela:

"How vividly I recall my little tiger bouncing around and into everything. You're now four times older than when I last saw you. From your picture ... I see how pretty you are, and I am so very proud of all three of my beautiful daughters."

To eleven-year-old Sandy, he wrote:

"You'll be an object of absolute fascination for me. I want to know everything that has happened to you. I want to know how and what you're like, what you dislike, how you spend your time."

Yablonski murder trial opens today

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — William J. Prater, a 53-year-old former United Mine Workers official from LaFollette, Tenn., was to go on trial here today on three state murder charges in the Yablonski slayings.

Prater is the third person to stand trial for the murders of UMW insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter, who were shot to death as they slept in their Clarksville, Pa., farmhouse on New Year's Eve 1969.

Prater and Albert Pass, 58, a former union Executive Board member from Middlesboro, Ky., are the only two of seven persons arrested so far in the case yet to stand trial.

Both were indicted on murder charges last July by a grand jury in Washington County, scene of the killings.

Their trials were moved to Erie County, however, after their attorneys successfully argued that neither man could receive a fair trial in Washington County.

In earlier separate trials Paul Gilly, 38, a former Cleveland, Ohio, housepainter, and Aubran W. "Buddy" Martin were convicted and sentenced to death in the case.

Prater was implicated in the murders by Silous Huddleston, 63, a former UMW local president from LaFollette who has pleaded guilty in the killings.

Anthony Quinn was born in Chihuaha, Mexico, in 1915. His mother was a 16-year-old Mexican; his father a 19-year-old Mexican-Irish fruit picker.

Sen. Russell Long proves top-notch finance chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russell B. Long's 24-year Senate career has had its ups and downs. But more and more he is impressing colleagues with his handling of one of the toughest assignments: chairmanship of the Finance Committee.

The Louisiana Democrat has been Finance chairman for seven years, and associates say only a change in home-state politics—or Republican control of the Senate—could keep him from holding the job for life. He is 54.

On the other hand, he is given little chance at leadership of the full Senate. He worked his way into the leadership structure in 1965, taking over as whip when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey became vice president.

But Long was not particularly active as whip. This, coupled with his sometimes-erratic behavior in the Senate and away from it, led to his ouster at the hands of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in 1969. Kennedy, in turn, was unseated two years later by Sen. Robert C. Byrd.

Friends say one factor in Long's momentary decline was his first wife, who did not care for life in Washington. Shortly after losing the whip's job, Long was divorced by his wife and was remarried in December 1969 to Carolyn Bason, herself a veteran of 20 years as a Capitol Hill staffer.

With this turn of events, Long immersed himself in the Finance Committee's work and his Senate career has been on the upswing since. Already he is gearing for a fifth Senate race next year.

Finance has jurisdiction over some of the most important measures to come before the Senate: taxes, Social Security, welfare and foreign trade.

Such bills originate in the House Ways and Means Committee, whose chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is more widely known than Long. But in many respects the Louisiana senator has the harder task.

Mills normally brings his big bills to the House floor under a closed rule which bars amendments. But the Senate has a completely open rule on amendments—often more than 100 floor changes will be proposed on tax or Social Security legislation.

It is in these floor battles that Long, as manager of bills, has won increased respect from his colleagues in recent years.

Deny policemen untested for pot

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk says a published report that police applicants no longer are screened for marijuana smoking is "ridiculous."

Perk issued a statement Friday saying experimental use of marijuana might not disqualify an applicant for a police job but that heavy or recent usage would.

"It is the considered opinion of this administration that the use of marijuana, which is an illegal act, would raise serious question regarding an applicant's attitude toward law enforcement," the mayor said.

Faulty brakes major cause of many highway crashes

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— An Indiana University study sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration shows more accidents are caused by faulty braking systems than by faulty tires, lights or other automobile parts.

The driver and road conditions, however, still cause most accidents, the two-year study reports.

The study was conducted by Kent B. Joscelyn, director of the Institute for Research in Public Safety, and John R. Treat, head of the institute's accident research division. They investigated more than 1,000 accidents in the Bloomington and Monroe County areas.

The researchers said braking and other mechanical problems caused 6 per cent of the accidents and may have contributed to 27 per cent.

Other causes of accidents included bald or underinflated tires, faulty lights and signals and excessive play in steering wheels.

The findings were reported to the General Motors special safety committee at Milford, Mich.

"Motorists driving older cars should be cautioned not to allow their brake drums to be machined during the brake repair progress without first checking to make sure that this has not been done too many times previously," Treat said.

"If this is done too many times to a particular brake drum, it is possible that the wheel cylinder pistons may have to extend so far that they can actually 'pop out,' and allow hydraulic fluid to escape."

Problems in a symbol

People have great capacity for viewing their lives in terms of symbols, which function as organizers of the many complexities that we must deal with every day. Politically they seem to be essential in order to represent, describe and justify behavior. A current example is President Nixon's frequent use of the phrase "peace with honor" to characterize the agreement in Vietnam.

Symbols, however, are a two-edge sword. They may be helpful as organizers of complexity, but too often they serve as justifications for behavior that need not be carried out if the symbol were not in force.

Some observers believe that President Johnson's frequent reference to the "commitment" the United States had in Vietnam was a prime mover in getting our country deeper and deeper into the war. No one will ever be able to say for sure whether this was true, but it seems not unlikely. Now one may wonder what behavior will result from the Nixon "peace with honor" litany.

What if things don't go as we think they should: will it have to be said then that the peace was, after all, dishonorable? We know already that the ceasefire is not working as planned; fighting continues. Further, there are indications of problems as to the release of additional prisoners of war. Reports also suggest that the Communists have set up a SAM missile site outside Khe Sanh in South Vietnam. Such behavior would not be unexpected. The important question is how the United States will react should the peace become "dishonorable" - not in accord with our perception of what it ought to be.

What if fighting continues on a large scale? What if infiltration continues? If the administration asserts the "peace with honor" theme too insistently, it will be hard pressed for an acceptable response should it become clear that the description no longer fits events. Mr. Nixon would be well advised to tone down his rhetoric, lest he commit himself to an unworkable slogan.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

'Operation Switchover' in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Republicans here have been listening to stories from Virginia that former Democratic Gov. Mills B. Godwin is a favorite to run again for his old job, but this time as a Republican. What makes this news from the upper South interesting to local ears is that its essential pattern may be repeated here.

Jerry Thomas, a former Democratic president of the State Senate, has recently jumped to the Republican fold, a change that take on special meaning because of Thomas's desire to run for governor on the Republican ticket in 1974. What is more, a lot of Republicans seem willing to support the man, who happens to be extremely popular with both parties.

A banker from Jupiter, on the East Coast, Thomas could pay something of his own way, which is hardly a disqualification for running a statewide campaign.

THE BUZZ-BUZZ about futures in the Tallahassee office of Herb Harmon, Republican governmental liaison man, is prime evidence that the sour taste left by the feuding of former Republican Gov. Claude Kirk and National Committeeman Bill Cramer is becoming a thing of the past. Neither Kirk nor Cramer aspires to new elective office in 1974, so peace reigns as personalities fade out. This does not guarantee ex-Democrat Jerry Thomas a clear path to the State House nomination — Louis Frey, U.S. congressman from the Orlando area, has said he'd like the job. But the fact that local Republicans are not cutting Thomas up in the way the Democrats shredded Mayor John Lindsay of New York when he switched to their party is a good omen for harmony.

Where Lindsay was dealt with as an interloper, Thomas is accepted as a bona-fide Florida Republican on the ideological level. After all, he has supported his new party's philosophy in such matters as opposition to busing and the corporate income tax, and that seems to be enough in a state that was almost entirely Democratic not too long ago. Indeed, Republican party harmony might best be preserved by closing ranks behind a newcomer whose philosophical heart is in the right place and who has had no connection with the bickering that let Democrat Reuben Askew take over the governor's office the last time around.

Thomas aspires to office at a time when Florida Republicans are pluming themselves on their ability to win a statewide race when they have an attractive candidate. Mrs. Paula Hawkins, who might have become co-chairman with George Bush of the Republican National Committee if she had wanted the job, got a heartening majority in her statewide campaign to become a third Florida public service commissioner, and if she were nominated for lieutenant governor on a Jerry Thomas ticket for 1974 it would make for a strong front.

The names of Thomas and Hawkins may not mean as much nationally as that of Mills B. Godwin of Virginia. But they could provide Southern Republicans with a three-point landing in 1974 if, as has been offered as a distinct possibility, the Republicans elect governors in South Carolina and Texas after Godwin has won Virginia in 1973.

THE FLORIDA Republicans are congratulating themselves on the fact that the Democrats are now on the defensive about a minor scandal involving Lt. Gov. Tom Adams, who is supposedly in trouble over the accusation that he has used state employes to work on his farm at the taxpayers' expense.

Whether this can be pumped up into a major dereliction is questionable; a local editor points out that Adams, who manages to live in hot water much of the time, has been charged with worse things and still survives. Nevertheless, the Republicans hope to milk the situation for all that it is worth. They take particular delight in pointing out that Askew could hardly have been elected governor if he had not had the support of Adams's friends, who constitute a sizeable statewide organization.

Askew has said Adams won't be on the ticket the next time. The question is whether the governor has managed to turn Adam's friends into his own.

In any case, "Operation Switchover" is locking up in Florida even as it is looking up all over the South. (Just wait for John Connally's conversion in Texas to throw it into high gear.) I hadn't been in Florida save for Miami Beach conventions since the Claude Kirk-Cramer fiasco, and the renewal of Republican confidence hereabouts is too obvious to be missed.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

The movie "Lavender Bath Lady", starring Lladys Walton, was causing quite a stir among local theatregoers.

All law enforcement officers in Fayette County met with Ohio Attorney General C.C. Crabbe and B.F. McDonald, state prohibition officer, at Memorial Hall. Most discussion concerned prohibition laws.

The Washington Gas and Electric Co. announced plans for a $200,000 expansion including a new 200-foot brick smokestack at the generating plant.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I got your notice about the soon ending of my subscription to your most appreciated Record-Herald. Well, as the subscription ends, so does my tour of Korea soon end. I'd like to say I shan't take it up again until I make it to my next base.

Through the months I've enjoyed receiving my home paper. It has brought home closer to me. I've shared joys and sadness of its news with my friends and people I know not. Only 12,000 miles distance has been separation. Korea has a diffierent atmosphere all its own. You can't say they are Chinese or Japanese. They are a people that have struggled for centuries even before Washington C.H. and the Buckeye state could be founded.

In my travels on off-duty time, I have seen remnants of Japanese occupation now gone. I have been fortunate to ride on various pilot boats here in Kunsan's harbour, on the open Yellow Sea. I have put my footprints on several islands off the West Coast. I have numerous pictures of these.

I also saw on the islands the remains of the Korean Naval War, such as now deserted bunkers built into the walls.

Yes, I have seen Seoul the capital once visited by Lyndon B. Johnson and his family. "Seoul is where it's at," I have heard many times spoken here. With its ancient palaces and parks it makes a farm-raised guy like me to get travel in his blood.

I have always wondered how other people lived on the other side of the world and "zowie" here I am.

In this setting in the Orient, the Herald has acted as a diplomat in paper form to all my Korea friends which if they speak a little broken English they'll say its "numba lona" which means in full English it's number one.

So I'll end here by saying I'll be reading your paper right at home again soon on leave. So "shine n." I've seen it from 12,000 miles away.

Hal Boyle . . . Would you like a bad job?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Opportunity knocks but once, they say, but sometimes it's better to turn a deaf ear to the door.

One of the times to let opportunity beat its knuckles in vain on your portal is when it comes to offer you a job you don't want.

Many people make a sorry brag that they undoubtedly have the worst job in the whole wide world. That couldn't be true for all of them. No matter how boring, vexing or worrisome your job is, you usually can look around and see someone who has a job so bad you wouldn't trade yours for it.

Here, for example, are a few jobs I wouldn't want to moonlight on — let alone work at them full time:

Quality paster at a library paste factory.

A mermaid at the aquarium.

A door-to-door anvil salesman.

A human fly with arthritis.

Resident dentist on an alligator farm.

An obstetrician for elephants.

A bra manufacturer during a rubber shortage.

Talent scout for a kiddies television show.

Superintendent of an old-fashioned county poor farm.

The official handshaker at a convention of octopuses.

Chairman of the entertainment committee at a national meeting of Mafia leaders.

Stand-in in a wax museum.

Morale officer in a concentration camp.

A bathing suit salesman in Siberia.

The night watchman at the city dog pound.

The tax attorney for Howard Hughes.

The dietician for Jackie Gleason.

The social secretary for Count Dracula and his family.

And now do you still think you've got the worst job in the world?

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His hunting methods not Christian at all

DEAR ABBY: May I add my comment to "Hunter's Wife," concerning a husband who loves to hunt:

A minister I knew in the Army more than a quarter of a century ago once told me that too many deer were only wounded, and went off into the woods to die in agony.

"My system," he explained, "is to break the deer's leg with my first shot. Then I send my dogs after him. They drive him to my car, and I shoot him there, so I don't have to carry him, but can load him right on."

In short, Abby, people who love to kill will always find a way to rationalize their cruelty.

C.H. IN N.Y.C.

DEAR C.H.: I am appalled. I hope that minister didn't preach what he practiced.

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, and my husband is 26. We both work and don't have any children, which is a good thing, because my husband is getting on my nerves.

We never go anywhere or do anything because he never wants to. I make enough money to have my own car, but he doesn't want me to have one. He'd rather drive me to work and pick me up and have me ask him if I want to use HIS car on weekends. When he lets me, he gives me a time limit, which isn't very long. When I come home he quizzes me on where I went and who I saw.

My younger sister is a high school cheerleader, so when I go to my mother's and she's home, she and I practice cheers and I help her make up some routines because I used to be a cheerleader, too. My husband just hates that. He keeps saying: "You're not in high school any more. You're a married woman, so grow up and act like one." Then he cuts the visit short and says, "Let's go home. I am bored."

He's also very jealous with no reason. I found out he PAYS some of the neighborhood kids to watch my house and write down the exact time they see me coming and going.

What do you think of this marriage?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think it's time you and your husband went somewhere together. For openers, try a marriage counselor. I've heard only your side of it, but your husband sounds like an immature, possessive, selfish sourpuss to me. You have a whole lifetime ahead of you, so you'd better learn how to get along with each other—or without. But don't go on this way.

DEAR ABBY: If anyone wonders what to give a senior citizen who's on a tight budget, please tell them to be practical. (I have enough perfumed soap and aftershave lotion to last me a lifetime.)

A most appreciated gift would be a book of postage stamps, or some stamped envelopes, or postcards. It's not always easy for us older folks to get to a post office, and it's nice to have these things on hand.

Last Thanksgiving a dear friend gave me my Christman present earlh. It was a large box of Christmas cards. Bless her, if she hadn't given me some, I wouldn't have been to send cards that year.

Please, pass the word, will you, Abby? It will make a merrier Christmas for many Senior Citizens.

C.H.S. IN S.F.

DEAR C.H.S.: Consider it passed. But why wait until Christmas?

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 5, the 64th day of 1973. There are 301 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1770, British troops fired on a jeering crowd in Boston, killing five persons. The incident, known as the Boston Massacre, hastened the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1766, the Spanish took possession of New Orleans from the French.

In 1798, French forces occupied Bern, Switzerland.

In 1849, Zachary Taylor was inaugurated as the 12th American president.

In 1868, the U.S. Senate was organized into a court of impeachment to decide on charges against President Andrew Johnson.

In 1877, the 19th U.S. president, Rutherford B. Hayes, was inaugurated.

In 1953, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin died in Moscow after 29 years of power.

Ten years ago: Striking coal miners in France defied a government order to return to work.

Five years ago: Richard M. Nixon, campaigning in the New Hampshire primary, pledged that a Republican administration would end the war in Vietnam.

One year ago: The Federal Reserve Board said the outlook for the U.S. economy in 1972 was good.

Today's birthdays: Actor Rex Harrison is 65. Conductor and violinist Lorin Maazel is 43.

Thought for today: There is nothing sillier than a silly laugh — Catuls, Roman poet, about 84-54 B.C.

It is estimated that the total cost of health care for Americans will be more than $100 billion in 1975. In 1972 the figure was $83.4 billion — twice as much as it was in 1966.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS calls it a "mini-cam." NBC calls it a PCP 90. By any name, it's a revolutionary new TV camera that'll quicken the already brisk pace of television news coverage.

It already is in use or scheduled for use in the news departments of the 10 CBS and NBC-owned TV stations in the U.S. And others are watching to see how it works out.

The camera, like news film cameras, is carried by one man. Like film cameras, it can be plugged into external power sources or run for two hours on a battery pack toted by the cameraman.

But that's where the similarity ends. The new camera can send live transmissions on a small microwave antenna carried on the cameraman's backpack, although these transmissions must be relayed by larger antennas to the television studios.

The camera also can record events on videotape, reducing by as much as half the time now needed to develop and edit the film currently used by TV news teams on most stories.

It'll allow more live coverage of breaking stories simply because it doesn't require the thick, heavy cables, large crews and huge, costly mobile units now used for on-the-spot broadcasts.

And it's only the first in a new breed of portable, lightweight color TV cameras; even lighter and smaller cameras are in the works from Japanese and German firms.

It first was used in CBS' coverage of the 1968 political convention and on a regular basis in October last year by WCAU-TV, CBS-owned station in Philadelphia, Pa.

NBC began regularly using the camera last December at its company-owned station in Washington, D. C.; both NBC and CBS started full-time use of the cameras at their stations here on Feb. 23.

Although both networks were aware of the camera's potential in 1968, they delayed putting it into full-time use, partly because they wanted to test it further and partly because they were waiting to see what Japanese and German manufacturers produced.

ABC News also plans to join the small camera crowd. It recently tested and rejected — for weight reasons — a German camera similar to the CBS "mini-cam," according to an ABC spokesman.

Tequila resembles pineapple

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The growing American interest in tequila, main ingredient of the Margarita cocktail, recalls a holiday I spent in Mixico some months ago. A side trip took me to the picturesque mile-high state of Jalisco, home of Mexico's national drink.

Driving through fields of orange-colored marigolds under brilliant blue skies was a memorable experience. First hint that we were nearing tequila country was a vista of blue and green fields. They were carpeted with the tequila plant which grows in endless rows over Jalisco's hills and valleys.

The tequila plant is a member of the agave family, I learned when I called at the venerable El Toro distillery in the little town of Adrenal. The plant resembles a huge pineapple with spike-like leaves about three feet high.

Tequila plants, set about 3 feet apart, are cut down and harvested the year round. The plant takes from eight to 10 years to mature by which time the heart, the only part used by the distillers, weighs from 40 up to 200 pounds.

Jaimie Ruiz, the distillery manager who took over from his father and his grandfather before him, took me through the plant built of adobe bricks.

First step is to bake the tequila hearts in large ovens until they turn brown. After they have cooled, the hearts are crushed 1and the juice extracted. The liquid is allowed to ferment for 72 hours in 500-gallon wooden vats, then distilled again in copper pot stills.

The liquid is stored in oak barrels holding about 50 gallons each and allowed to mature up to six years. The quality depends on the age.

The traditional method of drinking tequila in Mexico is a fascinating ritual. A Mexican will wet his hand at the base of his thumb and sprinkle salt on it. He will then hold a glass of tequila between thumb and forefinger. Then using the same hand, he places a quarter of a lime between forefinger and index finger. Finally, in three quick motions, he licks the salt, tosses down the tequila and sinks his teeth into the lime.

The average North American might find this method of drinking a little confusing, but fortunately an imaginative Mexican bartender invented the Margarita cocktail, which is beginning to rival the martini in popularity in some U.S. bars. Here is a recipe for this unusual drink.

1½ ounce tequila
½ ounce Triple Sec
1 ounce fresh lime or lemon juice

Shake with shaved ice. Before drinking, moisten the rim of your cocktail glass with lime of lemon rind, then spin moistened rim in a bed of salt and sip over salted edge. Good with anchovy and hardboiled egg slices on toast.

To coat chicken or meat with seasoned flour, put the flour in a clean paper bag. Add the poultry or meat, a few pieces at a time, and shake to coat. Any remaining seasoned flour may be used in making gravy.

Top scoops of vanilla ice cream with crushed pineapple and macadamia nuts. Nice to serve after a curry supper.

Banana dessert from New Orleans

BANANAS FOSTER — This delicious dessert comes from New Orleans.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a fabulously good recipe from the South. Bananas are cooked with butter, brown sugar and spice, then treated to banana liqueur and rum and spooned over ice cream.

This dessert was first served at Brennan's restaurant in New Orleans and apparently it was offered without ice cream. We say this because in "Brennan's New Orleans Cookbook," published over a dozen years ago, the ice cream is omitted. But in the 1971 Time-Life "American Cooking: Creole and Acadian" the Brennan recipe directs the cook to serve the bananas over ice cream — apparently a practice the restaurant now follows. We think this is a great improvement. By the way, when the recipe was first concocted, about 20 years ago, it was named after Richard Foster, a regular patron of Brennan's.

We make one change of our own in the recipe: nutmeg is used instead of cinnamon. And here's a tip: once you start making the dish, don't remove it from the heat until directed — even to answer the phone. If you do, as we have experienced, the brown sugar may not blend smoothly with the other ingredients.

BANANAS FOSTER

4 firm-ripe bananas
¼ cup butter
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
¼ cup banana liqueur
Ground nutmeg
½ cup white or golden rum
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Peel bananas; cut each in half lengthwise and then again in half crosswise.

In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat melt the butter. Add brown sugar; stir until bubbling. At once place the bananas, in a single layer, in the sugar-butter mixture and cook for a few minutes. Turn the bananas and cook only until slightly softened — another few minutes. Sprinkle with a dash of nutmeg and pour the banana liqueur over; remove from heat.

At once, in a small saucepan over low heat, warm the rum; pour over the bananas and ignite with a good-size match. As soon as flame burns out serve at once, topping each portion with the ice cream.

Makes 4 servings.

Production of art glass still province of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In the 1880s this city first earned its reputation as the "art glass capital of the world."

And in recent years the increasing popularity of art glass has only served to confirm how much that title was deserved.

"We're definitely in a renaissance period," said Ray Other, co-owner of the Unique Art Glass Co. "I think we've put art glass windows in half the restaurants in St. Louis over the past few years and it seems like we're doing windows in four to five homes a week."

Just how popular art glass is was shown last summer when a number of old windows were reported stolen from homes and apartments in the city.

A 3-foot by 5-foot old style window may sell in an antique shop for between $100 and $300.

But antique dealers say they are dealing with the problem of theft by buying old windows only from reputable sources.

Other explained that art glass refers to any colored or clear leaded glass. Stained glass refers to art glass that has been painted then fired to present pictures or letters.

While churches still provide considerable business for art glass companies, art glass is increasingly finding its way into restaurants, newly-built homes, and motels.

Panes of glass may be shaped into cartoon figures or animal shapes and hung like mobiles. Art glass windows are being illuminated from the rear and used in place of wall pictures.

One company even ordered an art glass panel to illuminate the center of a 10-foot diameter conference table.

One dealer explains that the biggest selling point of art glass is its "handicraft quality."

"It's custom made for the buyer with almost the same tools used 100 years ago," said the dealer, Jim Sumner. "Fortunately the craft has not become highly mechanized, or art glass would be coming off the assembly line looking all the same."

Park litter may pile up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio may play a dirty trick on 45 million visitors to its state parks this year.

The litter left by this record number of visitors may just be allowed to stack up—a little object lesson in outdoor housekeeping.

"We have talked about just letting it pile up for a week," said William B. Nye, Ohio's director of Natural Resources, "to let people see the problems litter causes."

Nye smiled and admitted: "We haven't decided to do it yet."

It may be winter, but Nye and his department are gearing up for a record season in the system of 61 year-round state parks spread around Ohio.

There will be some new facilities this year and some expanded amenities for 1973's expected record visitor rush—normally running at full flood from May 30 through Labor Day.

There were 40 million last year—2 million more than the previous year—but Nye said adverse weather hampered attendance. This year, with more parks and facilities and with good weather, he said, he is confident of the projected record.

New facilities include Barkcamp State Park near St. Clairsville which has a new beach, a parking area near the beach, picnic areas, and roads to service them.

Tinkers Creek in Portage County will be opening, and will feature new camp grounds.

Late in the summer, Nye said, Buck Creek should be ready for complete use. It is located near Springfield close to the Clarence J. Brown Reservoir.

Late in the summer, Nye said, Buck Creek should be ready for limited use. It's located near Springfield close to the Clarence J. Brown Reservoir.

Paint Creek State Park in Ross and Highland counties also is scheduled for limited use this summer.

Malibar Farm near Mansfield, the home of author Louis Bromfield which the state recently acquired, will be open for its first park season. So will the new Shawnee Lodge near Portsmouth which opened earlier this month and is doing robust business.

At Deer Creek, south of Columbus, there is a new beach, beach house, and campgrounds.

Beavercreek in Columbiana County, near East Liverpool, has a new 75-unit campground, and bids have been let to develop a livery stable and bridle path.

Findley State Park near Akron has a new beach near its camp grounds.

Kiser Lake, Lake Loramie, and Lake White all have acquired boating facilities, while those at East Harbor have been expanded and renovated.

Nye said the department will continue to stress its People to the Parks program which includes bus service to the parks from urban areas.

U.S. raw steel production at or near record levels

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Raw steel production in the United States has been at or near record levels this year, Industry Week magazine said today.

It said that after setting a record in January, production reached the second highest mark ever chalked up for February.

The magazine said January's record amount was 12,384,000 net tons and it estimated the February output at 11.6 million tons, second only to the 11,795,000 tons in February 1968.

Industry Week said that while demand for steel is heavy it is intense only for products, mainly sheets and strip, that make up about two-thirds of mill shipments.

"Ironically, it's on sheets and strip that the price line is being held," it added. "For the second time, the guarantee of prices on these products has been extended-this time until June 1."

The magazine said the strong raw steel production in January was not limited to the United States.

"Increases in January this year over January 1972 were recorded in all except three of the 24 countries that are members of the International Iron & Steel Institute," it continued.

Industry Week estimated last week's raw steel production in the United States at 2,929,000 net tons compared with the preceding week's 2,908,000 tons.

"With steel mills backing away from offerings of high-priced scrap, the upward trend in scrap prices has been reversed," Industry Week said.

The magazine's latest price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap is $48.75 per gross ton compared with the preceding week's $49.17.

Your Ohio Income Tax

These are the most frequently asked questions about the new Ohio personal income tax prepared by the Ohio Department of Taxation.

Q. I am an employer who pays bonuses. Do I withhold the Ohio income tax and at what rate?

A. Withholding agents should use at least a 2 per cent flat rate for withholding on supplemental payments such as bonuses, commissions and compensation other than regular wages and salaries.

Q. I live in West Virginia and work in Ohio. Do I owe Ohio any income tax?

A. No, wages and compensation will be taxed in the state of residence. This is in conformity with the Reciprocal Agreement which means that residents of Ohio working in a reciprocal state or a resident of a reciprocal state working in Ohio pay the tax in the state where they live.

Q. What are the states with which Ohio has reciprocity?

A. The states are: Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Note: Ohio entered into the agreement with Pennsylvania during 1972 which wasn't effective until January 1, 1973.

Q. I am a Michigan resident who worked in Ohio and mistakenly had the Ohio tax qithheld. Will I be able to obtain a refund from Ohio and if so how?

A. Yes, you will be able to receive a refund from Ohio. The procedure to be used is to file the Ohio return, indicating that you are a resident of the reciprocal state and owe no tax to Ohio.

Q. I am an Ohio resident who receives income from rental property located outside the state on which I pay that state's income tax. Do I also have to pay the Ohio income tax?

A. No, residents of Ohio may take a credit against the tax for income subjected to a tax in another state. The credit will be the same proportion as the income taxed in another state is to the Ohio Adjusted Gross Income.

Q. Is there a credit for nonresident taxpayers also?

A. Yes, the credit is in proportion to the income allocated outside Ohio bears to the total Ohio adjusted gross income. Note: For special instructions on allocation write to: State of Ohio, Department of Taxation, P. O. Box 2476, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Q. I have considered Ohio to be my state of residence while in the military. Am I subject to the Ohio Personal Income tax?

2 injured, 6 charged in weekend accidents

Two persons were injured and six drivers were cited in 13 traffic mishaps occuring over the weekend on city streets and county highways.

Balmy temperatures over the weekend brought heavy traffic to area roads, police and sheriff's departments reported. A heavy fog Saturday night also contributed to many of the mishaps.

Two persons were treated at Memorial Hospital Saturday morning following a two-car crash at the intersection of Court and North streets.

Released after treatment for minor injuries were Ordeltia Bolen, 65, Bloomingburg, and Margaret A. Foraker, 48, of 829 Broadway.

According to police the car driven by Mrs. Bolen was eastbound on Court Street and made a left turn into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Foraker's husband, Harold M. Foraker, 50.

Two passengers in the Campbell car, Reva G. Taylor, 20, and Steve Taylor, 19, both Rt. 4, complained of injuries but were not treated at the time.

Campbell was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance.

Medicare change hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed increases in hospitalization costs for Medicare patients today faced the opposition of hostile Democratic members of a Senate health subcommittee.

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, was the first scheduled witness at a new series of hearings on health care before a Senate health subcommittee. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the subcommittee chairman, said the planned reductions will never be approved by Congress. He noted opposition last week from senior Senate Democrats, including 12 committee chairmen.

Under present law, a Medicare patient pays $72 for the first day of hospitalization and nothing for the next 60 days. A quarter of the first day's cost is deductible for the 61st through the 90th day, and a half is deductible for the 91st through 150th day.

The administration plan would require a patient to pay 10 per cent of daily hospital charges after the $72 for the first day. Deductibles also would be increased for covered physicians' services.

The Yukon Territory was created in 1898.

BGSU, Toledo share 2nd place

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — As far as Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley is concerned, the Falcons' 59-40 basketball loss to Toledo Saturday night didn't change a thing. He figures his squad made great strides this season.

"I'm tremendously proud of our young kids this year," Haley said. "We went from last to second place and we didn't have a losing season. Our players learned a lot about what it takes to win this season."

Actually, Bowling Green was forced to share second place in the Mid-American Conference standings with Toledo as a result of Saturday night's game. Both teams finished the season with 7-5 league marks.

Conference champion Miami (9-2) downed celler-dweller Western Michigan 71-68, while Kent State (5-7) surprised Ohio University 75-71 to move ahead of Central Michigan (4-6) into fifth place in the standings behind the Bobcats (6-5). Central Michigan was a 70-67 victim of non-conference foe Akron Saturday.

Toledo, led by Tom Kozelko with 21 points and 16 rebounds, solved the Bowling Green zone and jumped off to a 36-20 halftime advantage. Kozelko finished with a career total of 1,561 points.

Cornelius Cash paced the Falcons with 15 points before fouling out with 6:32 remaining to play.

Miami beat Western Michigan from the free throw line, making 17 of 22 charity tosses to 14 of 30 by the Broncos. Both teams had 27 field goals.

Phil Lumpkin led the Redskins with 22 points and Frank Ayers was the top shooter for Western Michigan with 19.

Kent State came back from a 23-8 deficit in the first half to edge Ohio University. The score was deadlocked 35-35 at intermission and the Golden Flashes went ahead for good at 44-43 with 15:12 left.

Rick Gates and Fred Walter sparked the Kent attack with 21 and 19 points, respectively. Bill Brown paced the Bobcats with 18.

NCAA tournament-bound Akron's victory was its 12th straight, upping its record to 20-4. For Central Michigan, the game set three records. Ben Kelso became the top scorer in school history with a career total of 1,627, Dan Roundfield had a season record 346 rebounds and Dirk Dunbar had a season total of 471 points, tops ever for a freshman.

In other Ohio college basketball action Saturday, Ohio State edged Illinois 65-64 after seeing a 21-point halftime lead diminish. Allan Hornyak led the Buckeyes with 20 points, while Illinois' Nick Weatherspoon, leading scorer in the Big Ten, was held to nine.

Dayton defeated Xavier 87-81 as Donald Smith pumped in 22 points and Rick Thalls and Mike Sylvester added 21 and 18, respectively. The Flyers finished the season at 13-13 for the second straight year. Xavier is 3-22 with one game left.

Elsewhere, Wright State beat Cedarville 89-78 and Ashland downed Tri-State, Ind. 77-68.

MT's grapplers finish eighth

Cobb district champ

Senior strongboy Gardner Cobb earned a berth in the Ohio high school wrestling tournament by capturing a championship in the combined Eastern and Southeastern Class AAA district tournament held Saturday at Ohio University in Athens.

It's the second state tournament trip for the 185-pound Miami Trace co-captain. He earned a state berth two years ago as a sophomore in Class AA and placed third in the district as a 175-pounder last season.

Cobb will advance to the state tournament at St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus Friday and Saturday.

HE WAS the top-seeded wrestler in the 185-pound division and posted four victories to nab the district championship. He pinned Dick, of Zanesville, defeated Roush, of Dover, 11-0, Sarap, of Steubenville, 10-0, and Anderson, of Marietta, 4-0.

Head coach Chuck Wallace's Panthers placed eighth in a field of 14 teams in the district meet.

Marietta, with four individual champions, took top honors with 104 points and Dover placed second with two champs and 99½ points. Steubenville garnered 84 points for a third place finish followed in order by Lancaster (60½), Chillicothe (46½), East Liverpool (42), Cambridge (31), Miami Trace (28), Zanesville (25½), New Philadelphia (24½), Wintersville (18½), Athens (14½), Portsmouth (7½), and Meigs (4½).

Miami Trace also received a sparkling effort from senior co-captain Keith Earley in the 145-pound division. Earley, the No. 2 seeded wrestler in his class, notched a second place finish as he was defeated by Brunney, of Lancaster, in the finals.

Earley won three of four matches in the district tourney and finished the season with a glittering 22-4 record.

The Panthers also got a pair of wins from Rick Cassey in the 119-pound division and 126-pounder Alan Fennig. Cassey ended the season with a 14-8 record and Fennig has an 18-8 log.

Pete Rose no-show for Reds

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Pete Rose remained a holdout today as the Cincinnati Reds entered their fifth day of spring training.

The defending National League champions announced the signing of shortstop Dave Concepcion Sunday, leaving Rose and outfielder Cesar Geronimo as the only unsigned Reds.

Geronimo has not appeared at camp, but is not considered a holdout.

Rose and the Reds apparently reached a deadlock with the two parties about $2,500 apart.

Rose thinks $120,000 would be a fair wage for 1973, based partly on the fact he's batted over .300 eight consecutive seasons.

The Reds are reported to have offered about $117,500.

As the impasse continued, a retired Cincinnati maintenance and machine shop foreman, Herbert Johns, proposed a solution for the Reds, and Rose.

Tongue twisters train auctioneers

By TOM SIEBERT

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Can you say: Theopolis Thistel the famous thistle sifter, after sifting a sieve full of unsifted thistles, thrust 3,000 thistles through the thick of his thumb?

Or how about: Betty Botter bought some butter but she said, "This butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter it will make my batter bitter." So she bought a bit of better butter, put it in her bitter batter, made her bitter batter better — so it's better Betty Botter bought a bit of better butter.

For a breather try counting up to 100 and back by 2½s.

Now memorize the recite them quickly and without a hitch and you're ready for Scott Pittullo's auctioneering class at Lamar Community College.

These and other zany chants are practiced each week by a dozen students in the non-credit course. The school says it may base a one-year occupational program on the course next year.

The reason for tongue twisters and counting up and down by quarters and halves, says Pittullo, is that rhythm is the secret of an auctioneer's success.

"We use and use and use the drills till they're so tired they don't know whether they can go anymore or not. But if you don't get your dollars and quarters in the right place and you lose your rhythm.

"It isn't so much the speed that makes you think an auctioneer's fast, as his rhythm. The excitement in the chant causes people to bid."

Besides the fun of it, the course also has a practical use the instructor says, since virtually every product in the world is sold by auction at some point — including tobacco, farm goods, antiques, jewelry, rugs, furniture and even real estate.

More animals, birds believed endangered

WASHINGTON (AP) — All of Australia's big kangaroos will be classified as endangered species under a proposal by Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton. If the listing stands up it will be illegal to import the animals or their hides.

In all, Morton would add 18 animals and birds to the list of foreign endangered species, including 17 from Australia. Eight more were proposed for the American list, including the eastern cougar, long cionsidered extinct but now reported occasionally, the Utah prairie dog, northern Rocky Mountain wolf, Mississippi sandhill crane, Puerto Rican whip-poor-will and Santa Barbara song sparrow.

Speaking of Your Health...

Difficulty in Swallowing

I have noticed that for the past few years I have more and more difficulty in swallowing large pieces of meat and, particularly, dry food.

How do I go about finding the reason for this so that this unpleasant feeling will not get worse?

Mr. P. N., Ga.

Dear Mr. N.:

The problem of difficulty in swallowing is known as dysphagia.

Often, people can actually point to the exact spot in the chest where they think the food becomes stuck. This is helpful to the doctor who now pursues his studies to find the basic reason.

Occasionally, children are born with congenital defects and anatomical deformities. Their difficulty in swallowing is recognized immediately and steps must be take to remove the condition.

Adults who develop dysphagia may have obstruction for a variety of reasons.

Sometimes, there occurs a small pouch, or diverticulum, of the esophagus that carries food from the mouth to the stomach. A weakness of the muscular wall of the esophagus is responsible for this.

There are also many neurological and unusual medical conditions which, strangely, are responsible for difficulty in swallowing.

A hiatus hernia and a local inflammation of the lining of the esophagus are other reasons for the problem you describe.

There are many precise and excellent methods for studying the reasons for dysphagia.

It is possible to do the most delicate studies of the lining of the esophagus by X-ray. An instrument can be placed directly into the esophagus. Through this, biopsies of tissue can be made.

X-ray movies can show the speed with which food passes through. With these and other exact tests, the basic cause for dysphagia is easily determined. Only in this way can persistent difficulty in swallowing be adequately treated.

I had an accident and broke three ribs. Then I was told that air seeped around my lungs.

I am only 18 years old. Does this mean that I will be left with a permanent hole in my lungs?

J.S., Pa.

Dear J.:

I will try to clarify the problem you present and help reassure you that this condition will probably not affect you for the rest of your life.

You have had what is known as pneumothorax, meaning an accumulation of air around the lungs that temporarily stays pocketed within the chest.

An injury to the chest wall, with or without a fracture of the ribs, can cause air to escape from the lungs and lie in the chest wall.

There are also a number of complicated lung conditions that can cause spontaneous pneumothorax without any related injury.

Sometimes artificial pneumothorax is created for the treatment of some types of tuberculosis.

You need not be concerned that you have been left with any permanent problem, once the condition is healed.

Opening lead - king of hearts.

I have a letter from a Seattle fan in which he expresses his admiration for the way I bid Hand No. 30 in the world championship match between Sweden and the United States in 1953.

Bursting with curiosity, I looked up Hand No. 30. When I examined the bidding (I was East), it turned out that my entire contribution consisted of passing four times in a row! This was quite a letdown, I must say, but I cite the hand anyhow because it has several points of interest.

My partner, John Crawford, opened the bidding with a club. I had no good reason to respond, so I did what most players would do: I passed.

The Swedish South couldn't bring himself to sell out for a club, so he bid a spade. Crawford doubled for takeout and North helped me out of an unpleasant predicament by bidding two diamonds.

I passed, of course, but Crawford persisted — perfectly justifiably, I might add — by doubling again.

At this point it looked as though Crawford wanted me to bid hearts or clubs, but the thought of naming either suit revolted me. I decided to pass and take my chances against two diamonds doubled.

This proved to be a lucky decision when South ran to two spades. Again Crawford doubled, but this time, when I passed, I was on considerably firmer ground.

The outcome was much better than I had a right to hope. South when down four — 700 points. At the other table, the Swedish East-West pair landed in three notrump and went down one. As a result, the U.S. team gained 750 points on the deal.

Mrs. Meir rips Arabs

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir says she hopes the slaying of three diplomats, including two Americans, in the Sudan by Black September terrorists will spur tougher anti-terrorist measures by European nations that have given in to "Arab blackmail."

"The difficulty is that Arab blackmail has paid off," Mrs. Meir said Sunday. "Of all that has happened after Munich, after Bangkok, today in Europe there is only one Arab terrorist in prison and a few interrogated in Austria."

"All others who were detained—some in prison, some who didn't ever receive sentencing—all are free. The Arab countries were happy to receive them—Syria, Libya, even Lebanon."

She spoke at a tightly guarded dinner meeting with persons affiliated with the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations. Mrs. Meir, 74, was flanked by two dozen Secret Service and Israeli agents as she arrived for the dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

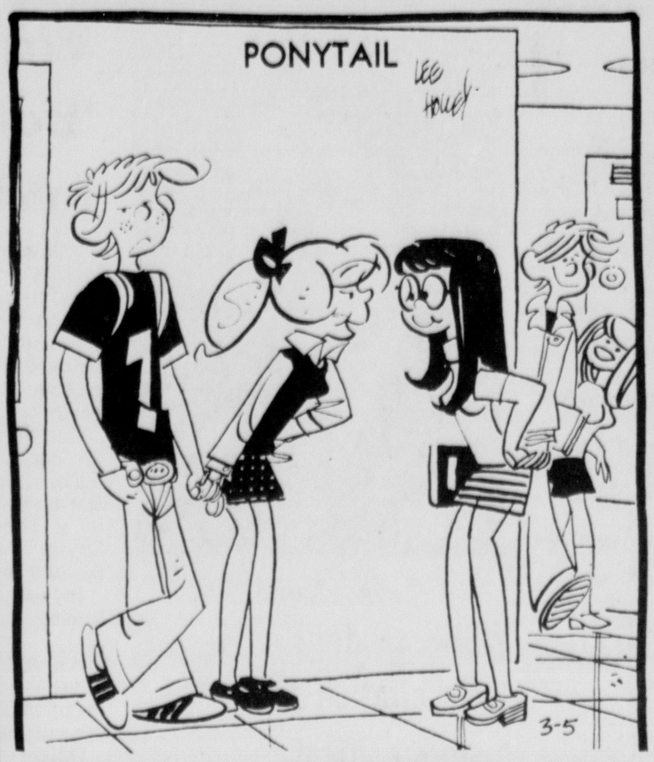

Mrs. Meir said European countries fear that, if they deal with Arab terrorists sternly, they will be threatened with seizure of airliners. "So the best thing is to get them out, which means you send the terrorists back to try again," she said.

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Police continued their search today for the two men believed to have shot and killed a 22-yearold Allen County service station attendant during a robbery early this morning.

The attendant at the near-downtown Lima station was identified as John W. Sterling of Rt. 2, Elida.

More than 100 high school seniors competed for a four-year scholarship and cash prizes.

Two seniors at Euclid Senior High School in Euclid, Cuyahoga County, took first and second place in the contest.

Wayne School 'bomb scare' investigated

A bomb scare delayed the start of classes at Wayne Elementary School in Good Hope for about 45 minutes Monday morning.

Sheriff's deputies searched the building but could not find any explosive and the students were then permitted to enter the building.

The telephoned threat was received by Mrs. Don Fowler, city police department dispatcher, at 7:30 a.m. She said a male caller had said "there is a bomb at Wayne Elementary School", then hung up. She then notified the Sheriff's Department.

Investigation into the scare is continuing.

AN 18-YEAR-OLD Fayette County youth was arrested by sheriff's deputies Saturday and charged with the burglary of a Milledgeville home.

He is presently lodged in the county jail in lieu of bond.

A hog feeder, valued at $150 was stolen from the barnyard at the George McNew residence Flakes-Ford Rd., Saturday afternoon. Mrs. McNew told sheriff's deputies she had seen three men in a light colored pickup truck drive into the lot and remove the feeder but thought her husband had sold it to them. The incident occurred about 5 p.m.

INDIANS HOLD RESERVATION HAMLET — An Indian of the American Indian Movement occupies bunker holding his rifle in front of church that is still occupied by group of Indian militants who took over the hamlet of Wounded Knee, S. D., on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

106 released Sunday; 34 today

Reds free 140 more POWs

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Viet Cong released 34 more prisoners of war in Hanoi today, including the only foreign woman held by the Communists, and a U.S. Air Force hospital plane brought them to Clark Air Base for a presidential welcome.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos was on hand because two Filipino employes of the Voice of America were among those freed, along with 27 American military men, three American civilians and two West German medical workers.

One of the Germans was nurse Monika Schwinn, 30, who was captured near Da Nang April 27, 1969.

It was the second prisoner release in two days. On Sunday, the North Vietnamese freed 106 Americans and two Thais in Hanoi.

First off the plane today was the ranking American military member of the group, Army Capt. Stephen R. Leopold, 28, of Milwaukee, Wis.

"My God, you don't know how good it is to be free, how good it is to be home," he said in a brief speech.

The POWs were dressed in the same gray shirts and dark slacks that other prisoners who have returned from Hanoi have worn.

All but one of the American military men smartly saluted the American flag before stepping down the ramp to be greeted by Marcos, Adm. Noel Gayler, commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific; U.S. Ambassador Henry A Byroade, and the commander of the 13th Air Force, Lt. Gen. William G. Moore Jr.

Marine Sgt. Frank E. Cius Jr., 36, who was captured June 3, 1967, saluted Gayler as he stepped down but not the colors. He was the only POW to be released so far for whom the military has not announced a home town. They said this was done at the request of his family.

Also on the flight were five members of the armed forces radio television network captured in Hue during the Tet offensive on Feb. 3, 1968.

They were Marine Capt. James V. Dibernardo, 38, of Mission Viejo, Calif., commander of the unit, Army Spec. 5 Jose M. Astorga, 22, of San Diego, Calif.; Army S.Sgt. John A. Deering, 30, of Durham, N.C., Army S.Sgt. Harry L. Ettmueller, 29, of Pleasantville, N.J., and M.Sgt. Donat Joseph Gouin, 44, of Lima, Ohio.

The three American civilians were Clodeon Adkins, 57, of Homeland, Calif., Michael Dennis Benge, 37, of Heppner, Ore. and Lawrence J. Stark, 37, of Chicago, Ill. All were captured during the Tet offensive in 1968.

Miss Schwinn, who was working for the Maltese Aid Service Mission when she was captured, managed a brief smile as she stepped into the glare of the television lights.

The formality that had marked the first part of the arrival quickly disappeared as the two men were smothered in the arms of their families. Balagot was greeted by his wife and all eight of his children.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong now have freed 299 Americans since the Jan. 28 cease-fire. Today was the first time the Viet Cong have released any prisoners at Hanoi, their previous release of 20 Americans on Feb. 12 occured north of Saigon.

The Communists still hold 286 Americans, all of whom are to be released by March 28.

All the U.S. airmen freed Sunday appeared healthy as they stepped from the three planes that brought them from Hanoi. They celebrated their freedom at Clark Field's 270-bed military hospital by calling wives and family members in the United States and devouring huge amounts of steak, fried eggs and ice cream.

Several of the freed POWs also held a 15-minute religious service in the hospital's Red Cross lounge shortly after arrival.

"We returned from war to freedom only America can give," Navy Cmdr. Eugene B. McDaniel, 41, of Virginia Beach, Va., said in a sermon during the service.

Money marts close; seek pact

BRUSSELS (AP) — The foreign exchange markets of the nine Common Market members will be closed all this week as the world's richest countries prepare for more talks later this week, seeking a solution to the dollar crisis.

The Common Market's finance ministers met Sunday at their headquarters in Brussels and decided to extend the market closing they had ordered last Thursday night. But they failed to agree on a joint program to protect their currencies.

The ministers said they would meet again Thursday in Brussels. They announced another conference for Paris on Friday to which the United States, Japan and other major trading nations would be invited. And the nine said they would meet again in Brussels next Sunday.

The U.S. Treasury said that it wants to cooperate with the other major trading nations in solving the monetary crisis. But it stopped short of promising to participate in the conference Friday.

Japan joined the European countries in closing its foreign exchange market for the week. The halt to official trading takes the pressure off the state banks, which last week spent billions to keep the U.S. dollar from falling below its floor.

The dollar was devalued 10 per cent on Feb. 12. Closing the exchanges means there will not be any agency enforcing a fixed set of exchange rates during the week's trading on private money markets.

The Common Market finance ministers said the assault on the dollar "was due to a distrust of speculative origin" and was not justified by the official exchange rates.

Valery Giscard D'Estaing, the French finance minister, told newsmen the European governments were "eager to defend the present set of parities.... We do not want to let the European currencies float upward as this would affect our competitiveness."

Other informants said there had been sentiment among the ministers for a float. But they could not agree whether their currencies should float individually or be fixed against each other and float jointly against the dollar.

30 Cardinals named; three are Americans

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI elevated 30 prelates of the Roman Catholic Church to the College of Cardinals today and revealed two others elevated in 1969 whose identities he had kept secret because they were in Communist countries.

The two cardinals named "in pectore" were Bishop Stepan Trochta, 68, of Litomerice, Czechoslovakia, and Bishop Juliu Hossu of Cluy-Gherla, Romania.

Bishop Hossu died in 1970, and relations have since improved between the Vatican and Czechoslovakia's Communist government.

The Pope also announced that he may make provision for representatives of the Synod of Bishops to sit with the College of Cardinals in its conclaves to elect a new pontiff. Such conclaves heretofore have been confined exclusively to the cardinals.

The day's schedule included the private consistory at which the Pope notified the college of its new members, the public consistory at which the new princes of the church pledged loyalty and obedience to the pontiff and received their red hats from him and a mass at which the Pope was to present the new cardinals their sapphire rings.

In the past, each of these has been held on a separate day. But Pope Paul, having already eliminated such consistory trappings as sword bearers, gentlemen in waiting and special robes, reduced the pomp of the occasion more by concentrating them in one day.

Three Americans were among the new cardinals— Archbishops Luis Aponte Martines, 50, of San Juan; Timothy Manning, 63, of Los Angeles, and Humberto Medeiros, 57, of Boston. Archbishop Aponte is the first Puerto Rican cardinal.

It was the fourth consistory in the 10-year-old reign of Pope Paul, and it brought younger men and more nations into the church's senate, which elects its popes. It also raised the total membership of the Sacred College to 145 cardinals, its largest in history.

The practice of keeping the identity of new cardinals secret by naming them "in pectore," or within the pope's breast, has been used from time to time when their public designation might endanger their safety.

France faces hot political runoff vote

PARIS (AP) — France plunged into a week of political trading today after the Communist-Socialist alliance made the expected strong gains at the expense of President Georges Pompidou's Gaullists in the first round Sunday of the National Assembly elections.

The embattled Gaullists were trying to enlist the support of the centrist Reform Movement and other nonleftist opposition groups for the runoff next Sunday. Communist and Socialist leaders were working to swing Socialist voters behind the Communist candidates in districts where the latter ran ahead.

Most Gaullist bigwigs were elected Sunday or went into the runoff, but that meant little.

The returns from the first round were comparable to those in the first round of the 1967 elections, which the Gaullists came out of with a majority of only one vote. They were way below the Gaullist landslide in 1968, after the May student riots, when droves of frightened French voters turned to President Charles de Gaulle to save them.

The Communists and Socialists took 40.5 per cent of the vote Sunday to 38.1 per cent for the Gaullists and their allies and 12.5 per cent for the Reform Movement. The Gaullist share was 44 per cent in the first round in 1968 and 38.3 in 1967.

Chilean vote changes little

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The moderate-conservative opposition to President Salvador Allende has retained control of the Chilean Congress, but failed to make the gains necessary to impeach the Marxist chief executive.

With 50 per cent of the vote in Sunday's election counted, the opposition had collected 53.62 per cent of the house of Deputies votes to 41 per cent for the leftist government coalition. The division was 56.79-41.50 per cent in the Senate races. A splinter party and spoiled ballots accounted for the other percentages.

Peace meeting in tepee planned at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Peace talks in a tepee were scheduled today at Wounded Knee, a hamlet held since Tuesday by militant Indians who have burned a government proposal to end the armed stand-off.

The Justice Department proposed late Sunday that the 200 Indians who invaded Wounded Knee could depart with no threat of arrest beginning at 10 a.m. EST today.

The federal offer stipulated the Indians must depart without their weapons and that only males must identify themselves as they pass through federal lines.

Federal officials said a grand jury investigation at a later date would determine if charges were warranted.

The Indians, led by officials of the American Indian Movement, jeered at the proposal in their camp Sunday night. They burned the paper on which the offer was written.

"We decided the Indian people are more important to us than jail terms," said Carter Camp, an AIM leader. "We've got to force the government to come to terms with us."

About the same time, the Indians offered a peace proposal under which they would remain in this village where 146 Sioux and 31 U.S. soldiers died in an 1890 showdown.

The Indians also proposed negotiations for supplies and said that any federal arraignments or legal actions should be held here. They asked all civil rights and peace movement volunteers to gather here.

The Indians' announcement Sunday of their determination to stay here came after a meeting with New York attorney William Kunstler, who arrived earlier in the day.

Late Sunday, a Justice Department spokesman declined comment on the AIM proposal and announced that peace talks started Sunday would resume at noon EST today in a tepee. The tepee is on no-man's land between the Indian outposts and the perimeter of 150 federal lawmen surrounding Wounded Knee.

Plane crash fatal to 53

NANTES, France (AP) — Two London-bound Spanish airliners collided in flight near here today and one crashed, killing at least 53 persons. The other made an emergency landing at a military air base at Cognac, 125 miles away.

The wreckage of an Iberia Airlines twin jet DC9 was found spread over a wide area of agricultural land. It had been Flight 504 from Mahon, on Minorca Island, to London via Palma.

The other plane was a Coronado four-jet plane belonging to the Spanish charter company Spantex. It had been due in London half an hour after the accident happened.

It was not immediately known how many people were aboard the planes. They can carry a total of about 265 passengers.

The accident occurred while the air routes over France were in the control of the military, who took over from civilian technicians after they went on strike two weeks ago.

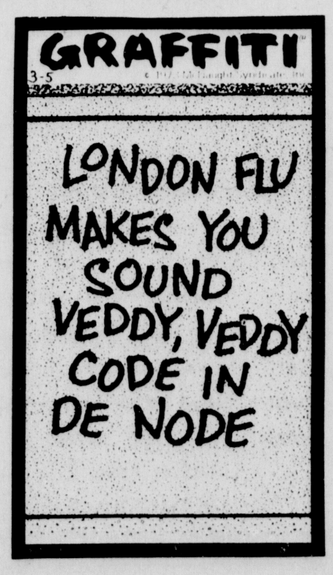

The collision apparently happened at high altitude. The Coronado made it to Cognac trailing smoke and the passengers were evacuated safely, officials there said.

Plan inspection of wild horse slaughter scene

HOWE, Idaho (AP) — Federal officials planned an inspection today of the scene of a mountain roundup where Humane Society officials say one of the area's last wild horse herds was destroyed.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Boise said the carcasses of 8 to 10 horses were found at the bottom of a 200-foot cliff about 80 miles west of Idaho Falls.

The officials would not comment on the destroyed animals, found at the 9,000-foot level of the Lemhi Mountains, but said at least 30 other horses were forced down the mountains with their nostrils wired to restrict breathing and render them controllable.

Nixon seeks $2.3 billion for new community grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that the cities' hour of crisis has passed, President Nixon says he wants $2.3 billion for broad community-development revenue-sharing grants to state and local government.

In a radio speech Sunday previewing a special message to be submitted to the Senate and House this week, Nixon said his latest budget eliminates seven urban-development programs and suspends four housing programs he described as outmoded and ineffective.

To replace these, he urged Congress to enact a "Better Communities Act," saying:

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development. Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington was spending it if they like. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval."

Touching on other points that will be covered in the message, Nixon said:

—"I propose that our states and communities be given the right to use a designated portion of the Highway Trust Fund for capital improvements in urban public transportation, including improvements in bus and rapid rail systems.

—"In the field of housing, we must stop programs that have been turning the federal government into a nationwide slumlord. One of my highest domestic priorities this year will be the development of new policies that eliminate waste and target aid to genuinely needy families.

—"Another key recommendation is our $110-million proposal to help state and local governments build up their administrative skills and planning expertise."

—Nixon called for the third year in a row for creation of a new "Department of Community Development" to "hold together programs which are now scattered among different departments or agencies."

The President, who taped the speech, flew to Camp David, Md., Sunday with his personal secretary Rose Mary Woods, and his Florida neighbor, Bebe Rebozo, for an overnight stay.

Rubble searched for missing men

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) — Search operations are continuing near the rubble of a partially collapsed apartment building where five construction workers died and nine others are missing.

Wrecking crews Sunday demolished a 24-story section of the structure so searchers would not be endangered, Fairfax County officials said.

Another 24-story section has slabs of concrete dangling above the ground held by twisted sections of steel reinforcing rods.

SLAIN — George C. Moore, above, who headed the U.S. diplomatic representation in the Sudan before Ambassador Cleo Noel arrived, was slain, along with Noel and a Belgian was gravely wounded by "Black September" terrorists who had taken them hostage.

Coffee Break . .

GEORGE CURTIS MOORE, one of two American diplomats executed by Palestinian guerrillas in the Sudan last Friday was a nephew of Antoinette (Tony) Moore, a teacher at Cherry Hill Elementary School in the early 1930's . . This information comes from Mrs. L. F. Everhart, 430 N. North St., who also is a retired Washington C. H. teacher . . . Mrs. Everhart points out that the former Miss Moore is now Mrs. William M. Strayer, of 3767 Broadview Dr., Hyde Park, Cincinnati . . .

Moore, outgoing U.S. charge d'affaires in Khartoum, Sudan, and Cleo A. Noel Jr., the new U.S. ambassador to that African country, were shot by a band of Arab terrorists who burst into a farewell reception for Moore last Thursday night . . . The United States has demanded that the killers be brought to justice . . .

Bodies of U.S. diplomats brought home

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Diplomats, Sudanese officials and newsmen wept openly today as a U.S. presidential plane left Khartoum to take home the bodies and families of two U.S. diplomats murdered by Palestinian guerrillas.

The burlap-wrapped bodies of U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr. and Charge d'Affaires G. Curtis Moore were carried from the blood-spattered Saudi Arabian Embassy on Sunday. The eight guerrillas surrendered to Sudanese authorities after holding out for 60 hours.

The terrorists also killed the elgian charge d'affaires, Guy Eid, but freed Jordanian Charge Adley el Nasser, Saudi Ambassador Abdullah Malhouk and his wife unharmed.

A band softly played Auld Lang Syne as the flag-draped coffins were lifted into the Boeing jet shortly after dawn, and the grieving families said goodbye to the long line of well wishers.

Two U.S. Marines in dress blues flanked each casket, but otherwise there was no ceremony.

President Jaafar al Numairi assigned Minister of Reform Abdul Rahman Abdul Ilah to accompany the bodies of Noel and Moore and to present Sudan's condolences to President Nixon.

In Washington, the State Department said the plane would arrive at Andrews Air Force Base about 4 p.m. EST. The two diplomats will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The eight guerrillas, members of the Black Septemberist faction of the Palestine liberation movement, were held at a Khartoum army headquarters.

President Numairi cabled President Nixon that he would deal firmly with them. "We find the killing of these men outrageous," he said.

A high-ranking member of the Sudanese government told diplomats privately: "The guerrillas are already dead men."

More than 100 paratroopers surrounded the embassy Sunday as the eight Palestinians, described as between 19 and 25 years old, emerged from the building flashing victory signs.

In a statement issued in Beirut, Black September said the guerrillas surrendered "because of the high esteem we hold" for Numairi.

"We leave them in trust in his hands," the statement said. "We are confident they will be treated as true revolutionary fighters."

Armed with machine guns, grenades and revolvers, the guerrillas invaded the embassy during a reception Thursday night and demanded the release of a number of Palestinians held in various countries. It soon became apparent, however, that their chief goal was freedom for guerrilla leader Mohammed Daoud Odeh and 19 other members of the Palestinian movement under death sentence in Jordan.

None of the terrorists' demands were met, and King Hussein of Jordan on Sunday confirmed the death sentence against Daoud and his associates.

See epidemic of typhoid in Florida

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — A "voluntary quarantine" has been imposed on a migrant farm labor camp here in an attempt to halt a local epidemic of typhoid found in 15 of 107 persons sent to hospitals for testing.

The 2,000 residents "are allowed to leave the camp to buy food or work but that's about all," Dade County Public Health Director Dr. Milton Saslaw said Sunday. "They've been ordered to stay in the camp."

Health officials said the number of confirmed typhoid cases from a contaminated water supply at the camp had risen to 15 but there had been no deaths reported since the outbreak a week ago.

Fairfield County developer sued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown today said he has filed a public nuisance action against a Fairfield County developer to halt the discharge of allegedly inadequately treated sewage into an unnamed tributary to George's Creek.

Equal rights amendment hearings draw to close

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opponents will be heard Tuesday night in the fourth and final hearing in the House State Government Committee on the Equal Rights Amendment.

Again, a capacity crowd is expected for the hearing. The committee chairman, Rep. Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, said he expects the measure to go to the House floor for a vote within two weeks.

Del Bane said he wanted to give members time to study written testimony provided by persons interested in the hearings. He said only 12 of some 65 witnesses testified at the last hearing.

"I told all of these women who wanted to testify and didn't get a chance to that we would consider their statements," he said.

Other action in the legislature includes an expected House floor vote Tuesday and action on a Senate bill.

The House measure would allow the director of transportation to negotiate with railroads over dangerous crossings. He could file complaints with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, which then could force installation of safety devices.

The Senate bill would allow cemetery land not containing graves to be appropriated by the state for highway purposes the same way the highway director can appropriate private property.

The House Finance Committee has scheduled three hearings on various requests in Gov. John Gilligan's $9.7 billion biennial budget.

The new Senate Applied Technology and Local Services Committee is scheduled to tour a General Motors plant in Columbus Wednesday to view safety and emission devices in new automobiles. The committee is headed by Sen. Robert E. Stockdale, R-31 Kent.

Mayors take conciliatory approach on tax sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sensing possible change of heart by the Nixon administration, the nation's municipal leaders have taken a conciliatory approach to the fiscal showdown between the federal and local governments.

The National League of Cities board voted Sunday to try to talk President Nixon out of money needed for local programs but to avoid a head-on collision.

"We must recognize the President is in a very strong position on the question of federal domestic spending and that sustained unanimity by the Congress against him is not very likely," the board said in a policy statement.

"We may very well fight our particular issues in the Congress and with the executive but a declaration of all-out war on the executive is a course which is very unlikely to produce victory and which would be counter-productive to our interests," the board said.

The boldest suggestion from the board was to press "for lifting of hasty and ill-thought-out freezes and rapid development of new initiatives ...."

The action, at the start of a three-day joint meeting of the NLC and the United States Conference of Mayors, contrasted sharply with the challenge thrown down last week by the Democratic majority of the National Governors Conference.

The Democratic governors voted to oppose Nixon's special revenue sharing unless he gives them better answers to uncertainty brought on by his impoundment and by budget slashes for state and local programs financed chiefly by the federal government.

The National Weather Service continued its flood alert today to residents along the Lake Erie shore between Toledo and Vermilion.

The Weather Service said that strong east to northeast winds forecast for today could force a rise of two feet or more in the lake level, which is already four to six feet above low water marks because of an unusually wet fall and winter.

One unknown factor, the Weather Service noted, was the ice on Lake Erie, which would tend to control the potential flooding. The Service said cloudy and foggy weather over the weekend made it impossible to determine how much of the ice has melted.

Meanwhile, weekend rains in Cleveland and Steubenville allowed air pollution alerts to be lifted in those two areas Sunday afternoon.

Heavy cloudiness and fog continued over much of the state this morning. Temperatures were mostly in the 40s and the 50s, although ice-covered Lake Erie helped pull lakeshore readings down to the 30s.

A storm centered over the mid-Mississippi Valley early today spread rain across most of the state today. The rain was forecast to continue today, then diminish to showers this evening. A few thundershowers were forecast for southern Ohio.

Temperatures today were expected to range from the mid 40s near Lake Erie into the 60s. Lows tonight are forecast in the 40s and 50s.

The forecast for the next few days continues wet and mild.

Water project petitions to circulate in Milledgeville

MILLEDGEVILLE — Two Milledgeville Village councilmen were appointed Saturday to circulate petitions in the village concerning the proposed water system. Councilmen Larry Anderson and Arnett Kelley will carry petitions in favor and against the project.

The councilmen are expected to make the door-to-door canvass together, probably in the evening. "We want to give the people an opportunity to say whether they do or do not want the water system," Mayor Johnny Dale Blair said.

The proposed project would provide water for the Milledgeville and Octa villages and the I-71-U.S. 35 interchange area.

Mayor Blair said he understands petitions opposing the Rattlesnake Creek Watershed project are being, or soon will be, circulated and emphasized that the Rattlesnake Watershed and Milledgeville - Octa - interchange area are not releated.

"We (the Council) want it understood that Council will run the town the way it feels the people wants it run," Blair said. That statement, he said, was brought about "because three or four people are trying to tell Council what to do."

Council agreed to ask Sheriff Don Thompson to attend the April 7 meeting to "talk about law enforcement in the village." Milledgeville has no police force and pays $200 a year for the Sheriff's Department to make periodical checks and patrols in the village.

Council also discussed putting the streets in shape for the summer as soon as weather permits. There has been normal winter damage, especially along the berms, that will heed attention, reports indicated. Residents should call Councilman Donald Anderson about any particularly bad spots, Mayor Blair said.

India to buy grain

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India will buy 814,000 tons of food grains from the United States this year, 40 per cent of the two million tons to be imported because of drought in many parts of the country, the government told parliament today.

Stock list opens higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened higher today with the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials up a fraction and gaining issues broadly leading declining issues, 219 to 78.

Brokers said the market was likely to remain unsettled today because of the unresolved international monetary situation. European finance ministers decided Sunday to keep their official foreign currency exchange markets closed at least through this week.

The stock market closed strongly Friday after President Nixon's assurances that the dollar would hold up in foreign exchange markets without another devaluation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been down more than 10 points before the President's news conference, closed the day with an 11.67 gain that brought it to 961.32. Advances pulled ahead of declines 748 to 699.

Dollar improves

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar improved sharply in bank-to-bank dealings today as European foreign exchanges remained shut for the second day while monetary experts sought ways of forestalling a renewal of speculation.

Dealers said the dollar's improvement apparently came from some profit taking by speculators who unloaded more than $15 billion during the past two weeks to buy stronger currencies.

Prison letters filled with POW yearning

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — In letters filled with yearning for the lost years, a Navy flier promised his three daughters he'd make up for having deprived them of a father while he was a captive of the North Vietnamese.

"I remember well you were angry with me the last time I was gone a few months," wrote Lt. Cmdr. Michael D. Christian to his 13-year-old daughter, Debbie, in a letter slipped from the Vietnamese prison dubbed "The Hanoi Hilton."

"Now with six years, you have a right to be pretty sore at me."

Christian, among the freed prisoners who landed Sunday in the Philippines, got the letters out several weeks ago through a POW released in the first group.

For three years after he was shot down April 24, 1966, Christian was never allowed to write, and his family did not know he was alive. Since then, letters have been rare.

The letters are also rare in that they are among the few ever written at length from a North Vietnam POW camp. For years Hanoi allowed only six lines and only recently have they allowed seven lines.

"I'll be a slow horse on a fast track for awhile but I'm counting on you to bring me up to speed with what appears to be a modern generation," he wrote to Debbie.

"You must be so big now ... high school. Wow! After looking at your last picture everyone (fellow POWs) tells me I'd better get a shotgun.... I've recently heard bits and pieces of what my world is like now. I'm counting on you to bring me up to speed with what appears to be a modern generation. I doubt I will ever understand your language. You'll have to teach me the new words so we can communicate."

"I'm very curious to things in which you have any interest, history, literature, homemaking, boys ... boys. There's a bet. Boys must be a part of your like by now. A teen-ager's "affair d'amour"—what a wonderful time of life...."

"When you see me, sweetheart, I hope to appear fairly normal. I think I am quite sound and normal...."

Christian wrote his youngest child, 8-year-old Pamela:

"How vividly I recall my little tiger bouncing around and into everything. You're now four times older than when I last saw you. From your picture ... I see how pretty you are, and I am so very proud of all three of my beautiful daughters."

To eleven-year-old Sandy, he wrote:

"You'll be an object of absolute fascination for me. I want to know everything that has happened to you. I want to know how and what you're like, what you dislike, how you spend your time."

Yablonski murder trial opens today

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — William J. Prater, a 53-year-old former United Mine Workers official from LaFollette, Tenn., was to go on trial here today on three state murder charges in the Yablonski slayings.

Prater is the third person to stand trial for the murders of UMW insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter, who were shot to death as they slept in their Clarksville, Pa., farmhouse on New Year's Eve 1969.

Prater and Albert Pass, 58, a former union Executive Board member from Middlesboro, Ky., are the only two of seven persons arrested so far in the case yet to stand trial.

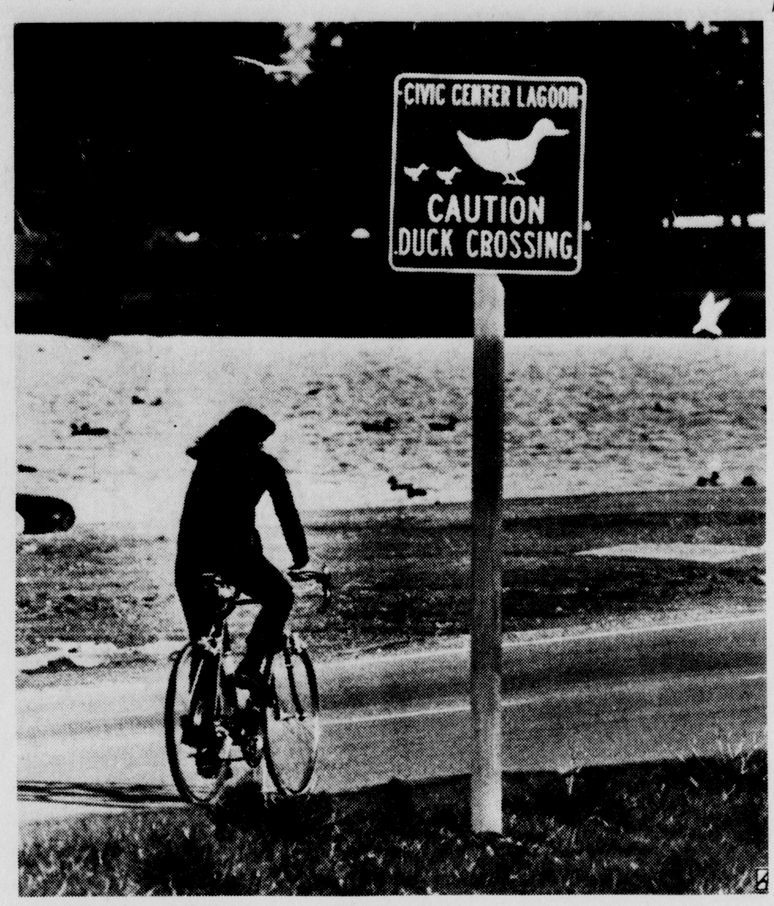

Both were indicted on murder charges last July by a grand jury in Washington County, scene of the killings.

Their trials were moved to Erie County, however, after their attorneys successfully argued that neither man could receive a fair trial in Washington County.

In earlier separate trials Paul Gilly, 38, a former Cleveland, Ohio, housepainter, and Aubran W. "Buddy" Martin were convicted and sentenced to death in the case.

Prater was implicated in the murders by Silous Huddleston, 63, a former UMW local president from LaFollette who has pleaded guilty in the killings.

Anthony Quinn was born in Chihuaha, Mexico, in 1915. His mother was a 16-year-old Mexican; his father a 19-year-old Mexican-Irish fruit picker.

Sen. Russell Long proves top-notch finance chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russell B. Long's 24-year Senate career has had its ups and downs. But more and more he is impressing colleagues with his handling of one of the toughest assignments: chairmanship of the Finance Committee.

The Louisiana Democrat has been Finance chairman for seven years, and associates say only a change in home-state politics—or Republican control of the Senate—could keep him from holding the job for life. He is 54.

On the other hand, he is given little chance at leadership of the full Senate. He worked his way into the leadership structure in 1965, taking over as whip when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey became vice president.

But Long was not particularly active as whip. This, coupled with his sometimes-erratic behavior in the Senate and away from it, led to his ouster at the hands of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in 1969. Kennedy, in turn, was unseated two years later by Sen. Robert C. Byrd.

Friends say one factor in Long's momentary decline was his first wife, who did not care for life in Washington. Shortly after losing the whip's job, Long was divorced by his wife and was remarried in December 1969 to Carolyn Bason, herself a veteran of 20 years as a Capitol Hill staffer.

With this turn of events, Long immersed himself in the Finance Committee's work and his Senate career has been on the upswing since. Already he is gearing for a fifth Senate race next year.

Finance has jurisdiction over some of the most important measures to come before the Senate: taxes, Social Security, welfare and foreign trade.

Such bills originate in the House Ways and Means Committee, whose chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is more widely known than Long. But in many respects the Louisiana senator has the harder task.

Mills normally brings his big bills to the House floor under a closed rule which bars amendments. But the Senate has a completely open rule on amendments—often more than 100 floor changes will be proposed on tax or Social Security legislation.

It is in these floor battles that Long, as manager of bills, has won increased respect from his colleagues in recent years.

Deny policemen untested for pot

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk says a published report that police applicants no longer are screened for marijuana smoking is "ridiculous."

Perk issued a statement Friday saying experimental use of marijuana might not disqualify an applicant for a police job but that heavy or recent usage would.

"It is the considered opinion of this administration that the use of marijuana, which is an illegal act, would raise serious question regarding an applicant's attitude toward law enforcement," the mayor said.

Faulty brakes major cause of many highway crashes

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— An Indiana University study sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration shows more accidents are caused by faulty braking systems than by faulty tires, lights or other automobile parts.

The driver and road conditions, however, still cause most accidents, the two-year study reports.

The study was conducted by Kent B. Joscelyn, director of the Institute for Research in Public Safety, and John R. Treat, head of the institute's accident research division. They investigated more than 1,000 accidents in the Bloomington and Monroe County areas.

The researchers said braking and other mechanical problems caused 6 per cent of the accidents and may have contributed to 27 per cent.

Other causes of accidents included bald or underinflated tires, faulty lights and signals and excessive play in steering wheels.

The findings were reported to the General Motors special safety committee at Milford, Mich.

"Motorists driving older cars should be cautioned not to allow their brake drums to be machined during the brake repair progress without first checking to make sure that this has not been done too many times previously," Treat said.

"If this is done too many times to a particular brake drum, it is possible that the wheel cylinder pistons may have to extend so far that they can actually 'pop out,' and allow hydraulic fluid to escape."

Problems in a symbol

People have great capacity for viewing their lives in terms of symbols, which function as organizers of the many complexities that we must deal with every day. Politically they seem to be essential in order to represent, describe and justify behavior. A current example is President Nixon's frequent use of the phrase "peace with honor" to characterize the agreement in Vietnam.

Symbols, however, are a two-edge sword. They may be helpful as organizers of complexity, but too often they serve as justifications for behavior that need not be carried out if the symbol were not in force.

Some observers believe that President Johnson's frequent reference to the "commitment" the United States had in Vietnam was a prime mover in getting our country deeper and deeper into the war. No one will ever be able to say for sure whether this was true, but it seems not unlikely. Now one may wonder what behavior will result from the Nixon "peace with honor" litany.

What if things don't go as we think they should: will it have to be said then that the peace was, after all, dishonorable? We know already that the ceasefire is not working as planned; fighting continues. Further, there are indications of problems as to the release of additional prisoners of war. Reports also suggest that the Communists have set up a SAM missile site outside Khe Sanh in South Vietnam. Such behavior would not be unexpected. The important question is how the United States will react should the peace become "dishonorable" - not in accord with our perception of what it ought to be.

What if fighting continues on a large scale? What if infiltration continues? If the administration asserts the "peace with honor" theme too insistently, it will be hard pressed for an acceptable response should it become clear that the description no longer fits events. Mr. Nixon would be well advised to tone down his rhetoric, lest he commit himself to an unworkable slogan.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

'Operation Switchover' in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Republicans here have been listening to stories from Virginia that former Democratic Gov. Mills B. Godwin is a favorite to run again for his old job, but this time as a Republican. What makes this news from the upper South interesting to local ears is that its essential pattern may be repeated here.

Jerry Thomas, a former Democratic president of the State Senate, has recently jumped to the Republican fold, a change that take on special meaning because of Thomas's desire to run for governor on the Republican ticket in 1974. What is more, a lot of Republicans seem willing to support the man, who happens to be extremely popular with both parties.

A banker from Jupiter, on the East Coast, Thomas could pay something of his own way, which is hardly a disqualification for running a statewide campaign.

THE BUZZ-BUZZ about futures in the Tallahassee office of Herb Harmon, Republican governmental liaison man, is prime evidence that the sour taste left by the feuding of former Republican Gov. Claude Kirk and National Committeeman Bill Cramer is becoming a thing of the past. Neither Kirk nor Cramer aspires to new elective office in 1974, so peace reigns as personalities fade out. This does not guarantee ex-Democrat Jerry Thomas a clear path to the State House nomination — Louis Frey, U.S. congressman from the Orlando area, has said he'd like the job. But the fact that local Republicans are not cutting Thomas up in the way the Democrats shredded Mayor John Lindsay of New York when he switched to their party is a good omen for harmony.

Where Lindsay was dealt with as an interloper, Thomas is accepted as a bona-fide Florida Republican on the ideological level. After all, he has supported his new party's philosophy in such matters as opposition to busing and the corporate income tax, and that seems to be enough in a state that was almost entirely Democratic not too long ago. Indeed, Republican party harmony might best be preserved by closing ranks behind a newcomer whose philosophical heart is in the right place and who has had no connection with the bickering that let Democrat Reuben Askew take over the governor's office the last time around.

Thomas aspires to office at a time when Florida Republicans are pluming themselves on their ability to win a statewide race when they have an attractive candidate. Mrs. Paula Hawkins, who might have become co-chairman with George Bush of the Republican National Committee if she had wanted the job, got a heartening majority in her statewide campaign to become a third Florida public service commissioner, and if she were nominated for lieutenant governor on a Jerry Thomas ticket for 1974 it would make for a strong front.

The names of Thomas and Hawkins may not mean as much nationally as that of Mills B. Godwin of Virginia. But they could provide Southern Republicans with a three-point landing in 1974 if, as has been offered as a distinct possibility, the Republicans elect governors in South Carolina and Texas after Godwin has won Virginia in 1973.

THE FLORIDA Republicans are congratulating themselves on the fact that the Democrats are now on the defensive about a minor scandal involving Lt. Gov. Tom Adams, who is supposedly in trouble over the accusation that he has used state employes to work on his farm at the taxpayers' expense.

Whether this can be pumped up into a major dereliction is questionable; a local editor points out that Adams, who manages to live in hot water much of the time, has been charged with worse things and still survives. Nevertheless, the Republicans hope to milk the situation for all that it is worth. They take particular delight in pointing out that Askew could hardly have been elected governor if he had not had the support of Adams's friends, who constitute a sizeable statewide organization.

Askew has said Adams won't be on the ticket the next time. The question is whether the governor has managed to turn Adam's friends into his own.

In any case, "Operation Switchover" is locking up in Florida even as it is looking up all over the South. (Just wait for John Connally's conversion in Texas to throw it into high gear.) I hadn't been in Florida save for Miami Beach conventions since the Claude Kirk-Cramer fiasco, and the renewal of Republican confidence hereabouts is too obvious to be missed.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I got your notice about the soon ending of my subscription to your most appreciated Record-Herald. Well, as the subscription ends, so does my tour of Korea soon end. I'd like to say I shan't take it up again until I make it to my next base.

Through the months I've enjoyed receiving my home paper. It has brought home closer to me. I've shared joys and sadness of its news with my friends and people I know not. Only 12,000 miles distance has been separation. Korea has a diffierent atmosphere all its own. You can't say they are Chinese or Japanese. They are a people that have struggled for centuries even before Washington C.H. and the Buckeye state could be founded.

In my travels on off-duty time, I have seen remnants of Japanese occupation now gone. I have been fortunate to ride on various pilot boats here in Kunsan's harbour, on the open Yellow Sea. I have put my footprints on several islands off the West Coast. I have numerous pictures of these.

I also saw on the islands the remains of the Korean Naval War, such as now deserted bunkers built into the walls.

Yes, I have seen Seoul the capital once visited by Lyndon B. Johnson and his family. "Seoul is where it's at," I have heard many times spoken here. With its ancient palaces and parks it makes a farm-raised guy like me to get travel in his blood.

I have always wondered how other people lived on the other side of the world and "zowie" here I am.

In this setting in the Orient, the Herald has acted as a diplomat in paper form to all my Korea friends which if they speak a little broken English they'll say its "numba lona" which means in full English it's number one.

So I'll end here by saying I'll be reading your paper right at home again soon on leave. So "shine n." I've seen it from 12,000 miles away.

Hal Boyle . . . Would you like a bad job?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Opportunity knocks but once, they say, but sometimes it's better to turn a deaf ear to the door.

One of the times to let opportunity beat its knuckles in vain on your portal is when it comes to offer you a job you don't want.

Many people make a sorry brag that they undoubtedly have the worst job in the whole wide world. That couldn't be true for all of them. No matter how boring, vexing or worrisome your job is, you usually can look around and see someone who has a job so bad you wouldn't trade yours for it.

Here, for example, are a few jobs I wouldn't want to moonlight on — let alone work at them full time:

Quality paster at a library paste factory.

A mermaid at the aquarium.

A door-to-door anvil salesman.

A human fly with arthritis.

Resident dentist on an alligator farm.

An obstetrician for elephants.

A bra manufacturer during a rubber shortage.

Talent scout for a kiddies television show.

Superintendent of an old-fashioned county poor farm.

The official handshaker at a convention of octopuses.

Chairman of the entertainment committee at a national meeting of Mafia leaders.

Stand-in in a wax museum.

Morale officer in a concentration camp.

A bathing suit salesman in Siberia.

The night watchman at the city dog pound.

The tax attorney for Howard Hughes.

The dietician for Jackie Gleason.

The social secretary for Count Dracula and his family.

And now do you still think you've got the worst job in the world?

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His hunting methods not Christian at all

DEAR ABBY: May I add my comment to "Hunter's Wife," concerning a husband who loves to hunt:

A minister I knew in the Army more than a quarter of a century ago once told me that too many deer were only wounded, and went off into the woods to die in agony.

"My system," he explained, "is to break the deer's leg with my first shot. Then I send my dogs after him. They drive him to my car, and I shoot him there, so I don't have to carry him, but can load him right on."

In short, Abby, people who love to kill will always find a way to rationalize their cruelty.

C.H. IN N.Y.C.

DEAR C.H.: I am appalled. I hope that minister didn't preach what he practiced.

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, and my husband is 26. We both work and don't have any children, which is a good thing, because my husband is getting on my nerves.

We never go anywhere or do anything because he never wants to. I make enough money to have my own car, but he doesn't want me to have one. He'd rather drive me to work and pick me up and have me ask him if I want to use HIS car on weekends. When he lets me, he gives me a time limit, which isn't very long. When I come home he quizzes me on where I went and who I saw.

My younger sister is a high school cheerleader, so when I go to my mother's and she's home, she and I practice cheers and I help her make up some routines because I used to be a cheerleader, too. My husband just hates that. He keeps saying: "You're not in high school any more. You're a married woman, so grow up and act like one." Then he cuts the visit short and says, "Let's go home. I am bored."

He's also very jealous with no reason. I found out he PAYS some of the neighborhood kids to watch my house and write down the exact time they see me coming and going.

What do you think of this marriage?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think it's time you and your husband went somewhere together. For openers, try a marriage counselor. I've heard only your side of it, but your husband sounds like an immature, possessive, selfish sourpuss to me. You have a whole lifetime ahead of you, so you'd better learn how to get along with each other—or without. But don't go on this way.

DEAR ABBY: If anyone wonders what to give a senior citizen who's on a tight budget, please tell them to be practical. (I have enough perfumed soap and aftershave lotion to last me a lifetime.)

A most appreciated gift would be a book of postage stamps, or some stamped envelopes, or postcards. It's not always easy for us older folks to get to a post office, and it's nice to have these things on hand.

Last Thanksgiving a dear friend gave me my Christman present earlh. It was a large box of Christmas cards. Bless her, if she hadn't given me some, I wouldn't have been to send cards that year.

Please, pass the word, will you, Abby? It will make a merrier Christmas for many Senior Citizens.

C.H.S. IN S.F.

DEAR C.H.S.: Consider it passed. But why wait until Christmas?

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS calls it a "mini-cam." NBC calls it a PCP 90. By any name, it's a revolutionary new TV camera that'll quicken the already brisk pace of television news coverage.

It already is in use or scheduled for use in the news departments of the 10 CBS and NBC-owned TV stations in the U.S. And others are watching to see how it works out.

The camera, like news film cameras, is carried by one man. Like film cameras, it can be plugged into external power sources or run for two hours on a battery pack toted by the cameraman.

But that's where the similarity ends. The new camera can send live transmissions on a small microwave antenna carried on the cameraman's backpack, although these transmissions must be relayed by larger antennas to the television studios.

The camera also can record events on videotape, reducing by as much as half the time now needed to develop and edit the film currently used by TV news teams on most stories.

It'll allow more live coverage of breaking stories simply because it doesn't require the thick, heavy cables, large crews and huge, costly mobile units now used for on-the-spot broadcasts.

And it's only the first in a new breed of portable, lightweight color TV cameras; even lighter and smaller cameras are in the works from Japanese and German firms.

It first was used in CBS' coverage of the 1968 political convention and on a regular basis in October last year by WCAU-TV, CBS-owned station in Philadelphia, Pa.

NBC began regularly using the camera last December at its company-owned station in Washington, D. C.; both NBC and CBS started full-time use of the cameras at their stations here on Feb. 23.

Although both networks were aware of the camera's potential in 1968, they delayed putting it into full-time use, partly because they wanted to test it further and partly because they were waiting to see what Japanese and German manufacturers produced.

ABC News also plans to join the small camera crowd. It recently tested and rejected — for weight reasons — a German camera similar to the CBS "mini-cam," according to an ABC spokesman.

Tequila resembles pineapple

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The growing American interest in tequila, main ingredient of the Margarita cocktail, recalls a holiday I spent in Mixico some months ago. A side trip took me to the picturesque mile-high state of Jalisco, home of Mexico's national drink.

Driving through fields of orange-colored marigolds under brilliant blue skies was a memorable experience. First hint that we were nearing tequila country was a vista of blue and green fields. They were carpeted with the tequila plant which grows in endless rows over Jalisco's hills and valleys.

The tequila plant is a member of the agave family, I learned when I called at the venerable El Toro distillery in the little town of Adrenal. The plant resembles a huge pineapple with spike-like leaves about three feet high.

Tequila plants, set about 3 feet apart, are cut down and harvested the year round. The plant takes from eight to 10 years to mature by which time the heart, the only part used by the distillers, weighs from 40 up to 200 pounds.

Jaimie Ruiz, the distillery manager who took over from his father and his grandfather before him, took me through the plant built of adobe bricks.

First step is to bake the tequila hearts in large ovens until they turn brown. After they have cooled, the hearts are crushed 1and the juice extracted. The liquid is allowed to ferment for 72 hours in 500-gallon wooden vats, then distilled again in copper pot stills.

The liquid is stored in oak barrels holding about 50 gallons each and allowed to mature up to six years. The quality depends on the age.

The traditional method of drinking tequila in Mexico is a fascinating ritual. A Mexican will wet his hand at the base of his thumb and sprinkle salt on it. He will then hold a glass of tequila between thumb and forefinger. Then using the same hand, he places a quarter of a lime between forefinger and index finger. Finally, in three quick motions, he licks the salt, tosses down the tequila and sinks his teeth into the lime.

The average North American might find this method of drinking a little confusing, but fortunately an imaginative Mexican bartender invented the Margarita cocktail, which is beginning to rival the martini in popularity in some U.S. bars. Here is a recipe for this unusual drink.

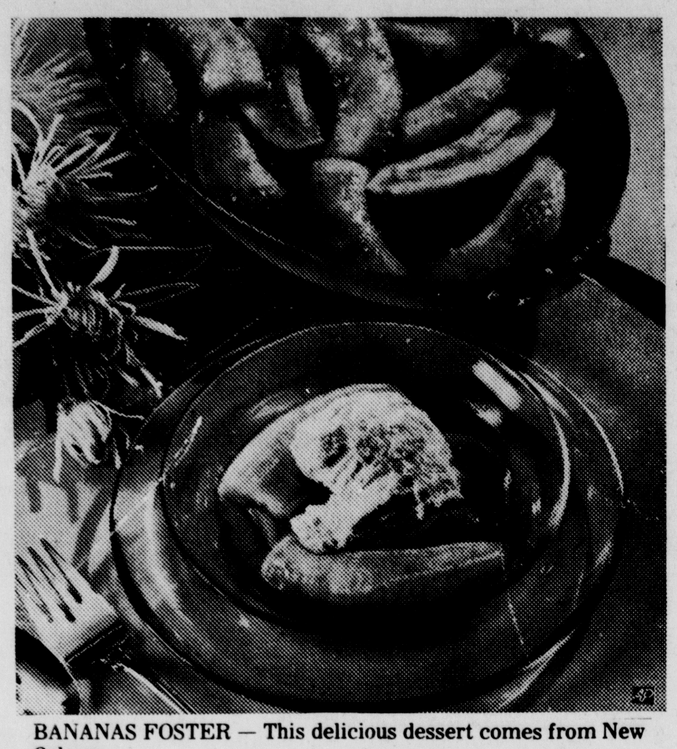

1½ ounce tequila
½ ounce Triple Sec
1 ounce fresh lime or lemon juice

Shake with shaved ice. Before drinking, moisten the rim of your cocktail glass with lime of lemon rind, then spin moistened rim in a bed of salt and sip over salted edge. Good with anchovy and hardboiled egg slices on toast.

To coat chicken or meat with seasoned flour, put the flour in a clean paper bag. Add the poultry or meat, a few pieces at a time, and shake to coat. Any remaining seasoned flour may be used in making gravy.

Top scoops of vanilla ice cream with crushed pineapple and macadamia nuts. Nice to serve after a curry supper.

Banana dessert from New Orleans

BANANAS FOSTER — This delicious dessert comes from New Orleans.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a fabulously good recipe from the South. Bananas are cooked with butter, brown sugar and spice, then treated to banana liqueur and rum and spooned over ice cream.

This dessert was first served at Brennan's restaurant in New Orleans and apparently it was offered without ice cream. We say this because in "Brennan's New Orleans Cookbook," published over a dozen years ago, the ice cream is omitted. But in the 1971 Time-Life "American Cooking: Creole and Acadian" the Brennan recipe directs the cook to serve the bananas over ice cream — apparently a practice the restaurant now follows. We think this is a great improvement. By the way, when the recipe was first concocted, about 20 years ago, it was named after Richard Foster, a regular patron of Brennan's.

We make one change of our own in the recipe: nutmeg is used instead of cinnamon. And here's a tip: once you start making the dish, don't remove it from the heat until directed — even to answer the phone. If you do, as we have experienced, the brown sugar may not blend smoothly with the other ingredients.

BANANAS FOSTER

4 firm-ripe bananas
¼ cup butter
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
¼ cup banana liqueur
Ground nutmeg
½ cup white or golden rum
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Peel bananas; cut each in half lengthwise and then again in half crosswise.

In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat melt the butter. Add brown sugar; stir until bubbling. At once place the bananas, in a single layer, in the sugar-butter mixture and cook for a few minutes. Turn the bananas and cook only until slightly softened — another few minutes. Sprinkle with a dash of nutmeg and pour the banana liqueur over; remove from heat.

At once, in a small saucepan over low heat, warm the rum; pour over the bananas and ignite with a good-size match. As soon as flame burns out serve at once, topping each portion with the ice cream.

Makes 4 servings.

Production of art glass still province of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In the 1880s this city first earned its reputation as the "art glass capital of the world."

And in recent years the increasing popularity of art glass has only served to confirm how much that title was deserved.

"We're definitely in a renaissance period," said Ray Other, co-owner of the Unique Art Glass Co. "I think we've put art glass windows in half the restaurants in St. Louis over the past few years and it seems like we're doing windows in four to five homes a week."

Just how popular art glass is was shown last summer when a number of old windows were reported stolen from homes and apartments in the city.

A 3-foot by 5-foot old style window may sell in an antique shop for between $100 and $300.

But antique dealers say they are dealing with the problem of theft by buying old windows only from reputable sources.

Other explained that art glass refers to any colored or clear leaded glass. Stained glass refers to art glass that has been painted then fired to present pictures or letters.

While churches still provide considerable business for art glass companies, art glass is increasingly finding its way into restaurants, newly-built homes, and motels.

Panes of glass may be shaped into cartoon figures or animal shapes and hung like mobiles. Art glass windows are being illuminated from the rear and used in place of wall pictures.

One company even ordered an art glass panel to illuminate the center of a 10-foot diameter conference table.

One dealer explains that the biggest selling point of art glass is its "handicraft quality."

"It's custom made for the buyer with almost the same tools used 100 years ago," said the dealer, Jim Sumner. "Fortunately the craft has not become highly mechanized, or art glass would be coming off the assembly line looking all the same."

Park litter may pile up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio may play a dirty trick on 45 million visitors to its state parks this year.

The litter left by this record number of visitors may just be allowed to stack up—a little object lesson in outdoor housekeeping.

"We have talked about just letting it pile up for a week," said William B. Nye, Ohio's director of Natural Resources, "to let people see the problems litter causes."

Nye smiled and admitted: "We haven't decided to do it yet."

It may be winter, but Nye and his department are gearing up for a record season in the system of 61 year-round state parks spread around Ohio.

There will be some new facilities this year and some expanded amenities for 1973's expected record visitor rush—normally running at full flood from May 30 through Labor Day.

There were 40 million last year—2 million more than the previous year—but Nye said adverse weather hampered attendance. This year, with more parks and facilities and with good weather, he said, he is confident of the projected record.

New facilities include Barkcamp State Park near St. Clairsville which has a new beach, a parking area near the beach, picnic areas, and roads to service them.

Tinkers Creek in Portage County will be opening, and will feature new camp grounds.

Late in the summer, Nye said, Buck Creek should be ready for complete use. It is located near Springfield close to the Clarence J. Brown Reservoir.

Late in the summer, Nye said, Buck Creek should be ready for limited use. It's located near Springfield close to the Clarence J. Brown Reservoir.

Paint Creek State Park in Ross and Highland counties also is scheduled for limited use this summer.

Malibar Farm near Mansfield, the home of author Louis Bromfield which the state recently acquired, will be open for its first park season. So will the new Shawnee Lodge near Portsmouth which opened earlier this month and is doing robust business.

At Deer Creek, south of Columbus, there is a new beach, beach house, and campgrounds.

Beavercreek in Columbiana County, near East Liverpool, has a new 75-unit campground, and bids have been let to develop a livery stable and bridle path.

Findley State Park near Akron has a new beach near its camp grounds.

Kiser Lake, Lake Loramie, and Lake White all have acquired boating facilities, while those at East Harbor have been expanded and renovated.

Nye said the department will continue to stress its People to the Parks program which includes bus service to the parks from urban areas.

U.S. raw steel production at or near record levels

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Raw steel production in the United States has been at or near record levels this year, Industry Week magazine said today.

It said that after setting a record in January, production reached the second highest mark ever chalked up for February.

The magazine said January's record amount was 12,384,000 net tons and it estimated the February output at 11.6 million tons, second only to the 11,795,000 tons in February 1968.

Industry Week said that while demand for steel is heavy it is intense only for products, mainly sheets and strip, that make up about two-thirds of mill shipments.

"Ironically, it's on sheets and strip that the price line is being held," it added. "For the second time, the guarantee of prices on these products has been extended-this time until June 1."

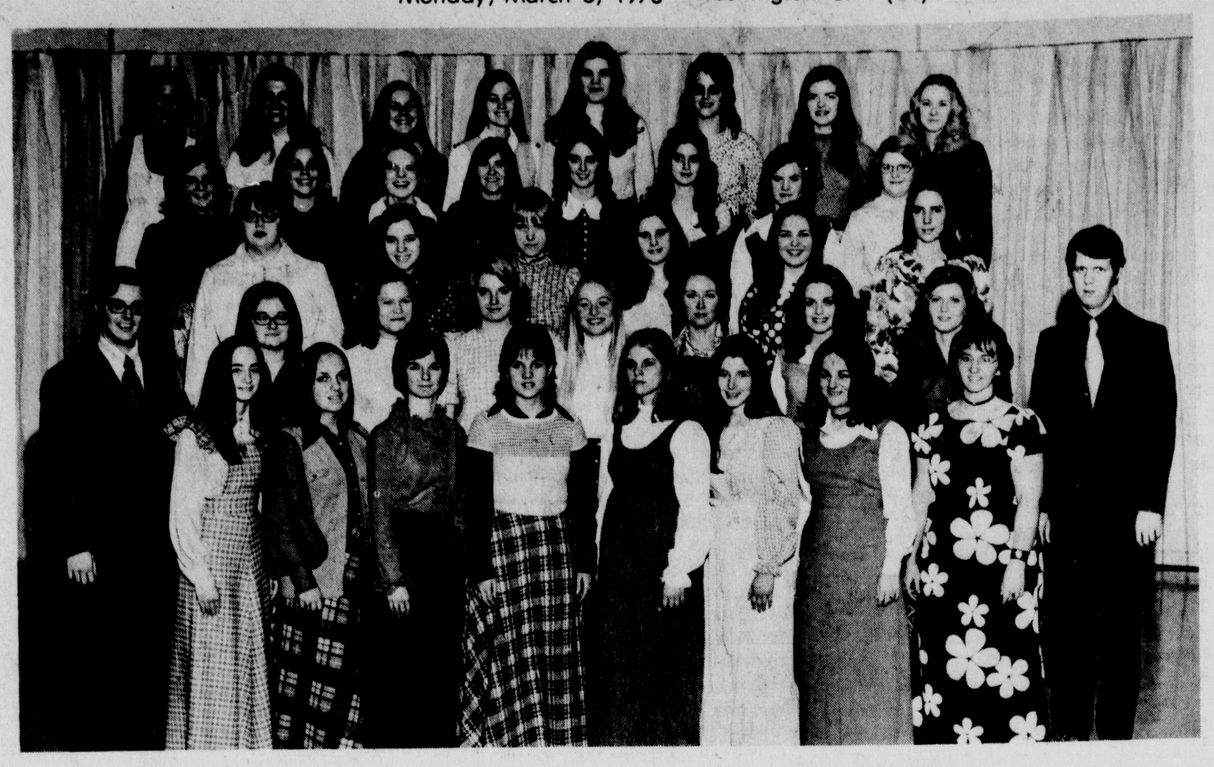

The magazine said the strong raw steel production in January was not limited to the United States.

"Increases in January this year over January 1972 were recorded in all except three of the 24 countries that are members of the International Iron & Steel Institute," it continued.

Industry Week estimated last week's raw steel production in the United States at 2,929,000 net tons compared with the preceding week's 2,908,000 tons.

"With steel mills backing away from offerings of high-priced scrap, the upward trend in scrap prices has been reversed," Industry Week said.

The magazine's latest price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap is $48.75 per gross ton compared with the preceding week's $49.17.

Your Ohio Income Tax

These are the most frequently asked questions about the new Ohio personal income tax prepared by the Ohio Department of Taxation.

Q. I am an employer who pays bonuses. Do I withhold the Ohio income tax and at what rate?

A. Withholding agents should use at least a 2 per cent flat rate for withholding on supplemental payments such as bonuses, commissions and compensation other than regular wages and salaries.

Q. I live in West Virginia and work in Ohio. Do I owe Ohio any income tax?

A. No, wages and compensation will be taxed in the state of residence. This is in conformity with the Reciprocal Agreement which means that residents of Ohio working in a reciprocal state or a resident of a reciprocal state working in Ohio pay the tax in the state where they live.

Q. What are the states with which Ohio has reciprocity?

A. The states are: Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Note: Ohio entered into the agreement with Pennsylvania during 1972 which wasn't effective until January 1, 1973.

Q. I am a Michigan resident who worked in Ohio and mistakenly had the Ohio tax qithheld. Will I be able to obtain a refund from Ohio and if so how?

A. Yes, you will be able to receive a refund from Ohio. The procedure to be used is to file the Ohio return, indicating that you are a resident of the reciprocal state and owe no tax to Ohio.

Q. I am an Ohio resident who receives income from rental property located outside the state on which I pay that state's income tax. Do I also have to pay the Ohio income tax?

A. No, residents of Ohio may take a credit against the tax for income subjected to a tax in another state. The credit will be the same proportion as the income taxed in another state is to the Ohio Adjusted Gross Income.

Q. Is there a credit for nonresident taxpayers also?

A. Yes, the credit is in proportion to the income allocated outside Ohio bears to the total Ohio adjusted gross income. Note: For special instructions on allocation write to: State of Ohio, Department of Taxation, P. O. Box 2476, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Q. I have considered Ohio to be my state of residence while in the military. Am I subject to the Ohio Personal Income tax?

A. Yes, as a resident of Ohio you are subject to the state income tax. This is consistent with the treatment given by many of the states who have an income tax. (Forty-four states at the present time.)

Q. Is it possible to obtain an extension to file my Ohio personal income tax return?

A. Yes, by submitting a copy of the form requesting a federal extension, you will also be granted an extension of time to file by the state.

Two persons were injured and six drivers were cited in 13 traffic mishaps occuring over the weekend on city streets and county highways.

Balmy temperatures over the weekend brought heavy traffic to area roads, police and sheriff's departments reported. A heavy fog Saturday night also contributed to many of the mishaps.

Two persons were treated at Memorial Hospital Saturday morning following a two-car crash at the intersection of Court and North streets.

Released after treatment for minor injuries were Ordeltia Bolen, 65, Bloomingburg, and Margaret A. Foraker, 48, of 829 Broadway.

Rural-Urban Day Tuesday

The Washington Rotary Club will observe Rural-Urban Day Tuesday during an 11:45 a.m. luncheon meeting at the Country Club.

Rotarians have invited farmer guests to hear Dr. Wallace Barr, professor of marketing policy and outlook, Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at Ohio State University.

Billie Wilson, chairman of the Rural-Urban observance, reports that 69 guests have been invited by individual Rotarians.

Dr. Barr, who holds Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Philiosphy degrees from OSU, has served as a member of two teams of Extension economists, who studied market opportunities for U. S. farm products in Far East countries. He was on assignment in 1972 studying implications of enlargement of the Common Market upon U.S. agriculture.

He has served as visiting professor at both the University of Arizona and Colorado State University and has authored numerous bulletins and articles on agricultural policy and trade that have had wide circulation.

He was the co-recipient of the 1972 Distinguished Extension Publication Award of the American Agricultural Economics Association for the bulletin entitled "Bargaining in Agriculture — Potentials and Pitfalls in Collective Action."

He received the Superior Service Award of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for "unusual imagination, initiative and teaching ability in developing an educational program in marketing policy, greatly benefiting not only the citizens of Ohio but also the nation as well.

Medicare change hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed increases in hospitalization costs for Medicare patients today faced the opposition of hostile Democratic members of a Senate health subcommittee.

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, was the first scheduled witness at a new series of hearings on health care before a Senate health subcommittee. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the subcommittee chairman, said the planned reductions will never be approved by Congress. He noted opposition last week from senior Senate Democrats, including 12 committee chairmen.

Under present law, a Medicare patient pays $72 for the first day of hospitalization and nothing for the next 60 days. A quarter of the first day's cost is deductible for the 61st through the 90th day, and a half is deductible for the 91st through 150th day.

The administration plan would require a patient to pay 10 per cent of daily hospital charges after the $72 for the first day. Deductibles also would be increased for covered physicians' services.

The Yukon Territory was created in 1898.

Highly-touted Ready sidelines Blue Lions

SHAPER RELEASES PASS — Chris Shaper, of Washington C.H., gets off a pass over the outstretched arms of Bishop Ready's Anthony Walker (43) during second quarter action of the Class AA sectional basketball tournament Saturday night at Westland High School. Other players are Jeff Downs (30), Chuck Seipel (21) and Jeff Wallace (44).

WCH ends upsy-downsy season in 74-52 loss

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A perplexing, but successful season ended Saturday night for Washington C. H.'s Blue Lions as a highly-touted Columbus Bishop Ready team ushered head coach Gary Shaffer's bunch to the sidelines with a 74-52 win in the lower bracket finals of the Central District Class AA sectional basketball tournament at Columbus Westland High School.

A fine following of loyal Washington C. H. fans had no reason to be the least bit embarrassed with the lopsided decision as the upsy-downsy Lions turned in a respectable showing.

Columbus Ready, the defending Class AA state champions, characterized and set the tempo for the contest with excellent outside marksmanship and a run-and-shoot attack to earn a berth in next week's district tournament at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

IT WAS Bishop Ready's 17th win in 20 outings this season, and although head coach Pat Penn's forces were never really threatened after the early moments of the game, they did not seem to uphold their fifth place ranking in the final Associated Press poll of Ohio's Class AA teams.

For Washington C. H., it marked the third time in seven years the Lions were forced to face a defending state champion at the sectional level. The Lions bow out of the 1972-73 campaign with a 10-9 all-games record and finished second in the 45th South Central Ohio League championship race.

While the speedy Silver Knights were popping away from long range and enjoying decent results, a zone picket erected by the veteran Ready taskmaster also forced the bulk of Washington C. H.'s offensive efforts outside.

Jimmy Jones, the 6-foot-0 junior sharpshooter, sparked Bishop Ready's scoring punch with 17 points on the basis of six field goals and five free throws, most of which the slick-shooting backcourt ace garnered after mission.

STURDY Chuck Seipel, Jones' backcourt sidekick, provided ample support by displaying some crafty and nervy moves on driving layups. Seipel, a 6-foot-0 senior, bucketed 15 points and muscular 6-foot-4 junior Anthony Walker contributed nine points.

Pressure-proofed junior cornerman Kenny Knisley paced Washington C. H.'s scoring effort with 11 points on five fielders and a free throw and ended the season as the Blue Lions' top pointmaker in tournament action.

Shaffer employed a starting quintet which did not include both Chuck Bath and Dick Witherspoon, who landed berths on the All-SCOL second team this season. Jeff Downs, a scrappy senior guard, opened with steady senior Albert Donahue in the Lion backcourt and responded with five points.

Smooth-shooting Bath, who came off the bench late in the second quarter, canned nine points and consistent senior Mike Domenico added eight markers.

Ready connected on 31 of 73 field goal attempts for a nifty 43 per cent figure, while the Lions made good on only 20 of 59 shots for a 34 per cent rate. Free throw shooting was nearly the same as the Lions hit 43 per cent on 12 of 28 chances and the Knights hit 12 of 29.

The Knights, who have captured the Columbus Catholic League championship four straight seasons, held a 38-33 rebounding edge. Washington C. H. turned the ball over 23 times.

The Lions enjoyed two shortlived leads in the opening moments of the contest and kept clicking at Ready's heels after Jones was benched with three personal fouls with over three minutes remaining in the first quarter.

BUT EVEN after Jones' early exit, Ready got six points from Seipel and outscored the smaller Lions 9-4 to grab an 18-10 first period advantaage.

Following a bucket by Domenico, the Lions suffered a dry spell in the second quarter and quickly opened a 14-point lead with 6:11 showing before Washington C. H. got back on the scoreboard after a goal by Knisley with 5:36 left.

The Lions trimmed the bulge to nine points a minute later, but the Silver Knights pulled away behind the inside scorework of Walker and pivotman Bob Cumberlander who combined for 10 points in the period to help Ready to a 38-24 spread at half.

To add to Washington C. H.'s second quarter frustration, the Lions misfired on a total of nine free throw chances and had made good on only seven of 17 charity tosses by the time intermission came.

Jones returned in the third quarter and responded with nine points. Seven of his counters came in the opening minutes when Ready opened an 11-point scoring binge while the Blue Lions managed only one bucket.

Bath dropped in five of Washington C. H.'s 11 point in the period, but the Lions were confronted with a 56-35 deficit heading into the final frame.

Both coaches substituted freely in the fourth period and junior pivotman Jeff Wallace helped the Lions score 17 points with a five-point contribution, but Ready's lead was too much to overcome.

23-under gives Allin win

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — More than ever, he looked like a refugee from the Our Gang Comedy Kids.

He's a skinny little guy, freckle-faced and red-haired. The victory jacket he had just been presented almost swallowed up his 135 pounds. It hung loosely on his shoulders and the sleeves drooped over his knuckles.

But Buddy Allin couldn't have been happier. He grinned like the drug store delivery boy with a 50 cent tip.

"I really wanted to win another tournament," said the 28-year-old, a four-time decorated veteran of Vietnam. "I'd won before but I kind of backed into it.

That was only because it was two years in coming. When he got around to it, Allin scored by a whopping eight strokes with a 23-under-par total of 265 Sunday in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

UCLA edges Stanford

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Want to know how to beat UCLA in basketball? Coach Howie Dallmar of Stanford has an easier solution than locking the Bruins in their dressing room.

"In order to beat UCLA, you must control the tempo of the game," says Dallmar. "You cannot take bad shots. Any team that can control the ball for 28 to 30 minutes has a chance to win. That means you don't have to spend all your time defensing the Bruins."

Aspirants for a national basketball championship, please take note. You'd be listening to a man whose team had almost beaten mighty UCLA.

The Bruins, who have won the NCAA title six straight years and and will be making another appearance as a result of winning the Pacific-8 title, had some scary moments before scoring their 70th consecutive victory, a 51-45 spine-tingler over Stanford Saturday night.

Stanford had a 25-18 lead at the half by "controlling" the game with stalling tactics. But the Bruins, who could only manage seven of 23 field goal attempts in the first half, got their attack untracked behind Bill Walton in the second half.

The lanky redhead scored 15 of his 23 points in the last half, helping the amazing Bruins add to their record winning-streak.

Top-ranked UCLA, which had clinched the Pacific-8 championship Friday night with a victory over California, was the first of the conference champions crowned over the weekend.

Eight teams won titles the past weekend and moved into the NCAA playoffs. The national championship will be settled in St. Louis on March 26 after two weeks of regional competition.

Along with UCLA, the latest title-winners were Penn in the Ivy League, Kansas State in the Big Eight, Furman in the Southern Conference, St. Joseph's, Pa., in the Middle Atlantic Conference, Austin Peay in the Ohio Valley Conference, Arizona State in the Western Athletic Conference and the University of San Francisco in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Penn won its fourth straight Ivy crown with a 74-46 victory over Dartmouth; Kansas State topped Nebraska 97-70, grabbing the Big Eight for the second year in a row; Furman nailed down the Southern Conference title, beating favored Davidson 99-81 in the league playoffs; St. Joseph's stopped Temple 70-60 for the MAC crown; Austin Peay took the OVC with a 75-73 decision over Murray; Arizona State won the WAC with an 89-87 decision over Colorado State, and San Francisco won the WCAC with a 96-71 breeze over Pepperdine.

Along with No. 1 UCLA and No. 3 Minnesota, seven other Top Ten teams saw action over the weekend. Second-ranked North Carolina State crushed Wake Forest 100-77; No. 4 Long Beach tripped No. 5 Marquette 76-66; No. 6 Providence defeated No. 17 St. John's 93-90; seventh-rated North Carolina nipped Duke 72-70; ninth-ranked Maryland beat Virginia 92-81, and St. Louis University turned back No. 10 Memphis State 70-56.

Three more SCOL quintets ousted in prep tourneys

Three more South Central Ohio League teams were sidelined in sectional tournament action Saturday night, leaving Miami Trace as the league's standard-bearer for the remainder of high school's heartbreak highway.

Washington C. H.'s Blue Lions, SCOL co-champion Circleville and Hillsboro were ousted in Saturday night's action involving SCOL teams, while Miami Trace scored a 56-53 win over Meigs to win the Rio Grande Class AAA sectional crown on Friday night.

Head coach Gary Shaffer's Blue Lions fell victim to defending Class AA state champion Columbus Bishop Ready, while Circleville dropped a 91-70 decision to Pickaway County rival in the Central District Class AA sectional tournament and Hillsboro bowed to state-ranked Albany Alexander 84-62 at the Waverly Class AA tourney.

TEAYS VALLEY, now 13-7, hit 36 of 59 attempts from the field to snap Circleville's five-game winning string at the Fairgrounds Coliseum to win the Central District Class AA lower bracket championship.

The contest was moved to the Coliseum for more seating, and about 2,000 fans showed up to see the fight-marred game which saw three Circleville players ejected in the final minutes.

Teays Valley advances to the Columbus District tournament and will meet Licking Heights (13-7) at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The winners broke the contest open in the second period by rolling up 29 points, 15 by Craig Pontius, who led all comers with 31 markers. Pontius also grabbed 14 rebounds.

Senior pivotman Dan Graham topped Circleville with 21 points and nine rebounds as head coach John Lawhorn's Tigers bowed out with a 15-5 record.

ALBANY ALEXANDER, ranked eighth the Associated Press' final Class AA poll, took a 20-10 lead after one quarter, stretched it to 40-24 at halftime and coasted the rest of the way to the win.

Hillsboro's Don Jewett led all scorers with 33 points, but four Alexander starters scored in double figures.

Alexander, now 18-2, advances to the district tournament at Rio Grande College, while Hillsboro, which saw a four-game win spree cracked, bowed out with an 11-9 mark.

Chillicothe to join MT in Athens jaunt

RIO GRANDE — Chillicothe's Cavaliers, who won their first Central Ohio League championship in 12 seasons, earned a berth in the district tournament by defeating arch-rival Portsmouth 72-58 in the lower bracket finals of the Class AAA sectional basketball tourney at Rio Grande College Saturday night.

Head coach Tom Cuppett's Cavaliers, who increased their record to 17-3, will join Miami Trace, the upper bracket winner, for the trip to the district tournament at Ohio University's Convocation Center in Athens Friday night.

CHILLICOTHE and Miami Trace will meet co-winners from the Eastern District Class AAA sectional tournament at Steubenville.

Portsmouth shot only 33 per cent from the floor and could come no closer than eight points in the second half as Chillicothe received double figure scoring from three players.

Smooth-shooting Mark Bayless led Chillicothe's scoring punch with 22 points, all on baskets, while Bo Clemens scored 13 points for Portsmouth, which finished 12-8.

In other action Saturday night, Waverly, Ohio's top-ranked Class AA team, scored a 70-56 win over Wheelersburg to capture the Lucasville Class AA sectional tournament.

Rupp says Hornyak big enough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Adolph Rupp scoffed at the idea Ohio State guard Allan Hornyak is too slow and too small for professional basketball.

The retired University of Kentucky mentor, now president of the Memphis franchise in the American Basketball Association, watched Hornyak core 20 points in the Buckeyes' 65-64 Big Ten victory over Illinois Saturday night.

"He's quick enough to play pro ball," the famed Baron drawled. "Even at his size (6-1) he can play."

Rupp also liked the looks of Luke Witte, Ohio State's 7-foot center, who has shaken a slump and scored 15 points against the Illini.

"Witte is rebounding better than I expected. He's a prospect because of his size. We can put some weight on him and roughten him up. He can play," Rupp said.

Rupp isn't so certain about Nick Weatherspoon of Illinois, who has been leading the Big Ten in scoring before Wardell Jackson limited him to nine points. Weatherspoon was averaging almost 26 points.

"He's not moving around nearly as much as I would like to see. I'd like to see him rougher under the boards too," Rupp said.

Cambridge surprised East Liverpool 58-55 Saturday night in the Class AAA sectional tournament at Steubenville. The Miami Trace Panthers will meet Cambridge

Cobb district champ

Senior strongboy Gardner Cobb earned a berth in the Ohio high school wrestling tournament by capturing a championship in the combined Eastern and Southeastern Class AAA district tournament held Saturday at Ohio University in Athens.

It's the second state tournament trip for the 185-pound Miami Trace co-captain. He earned a state berth two years ago as a sophomore in Class AA and placed third in the district as a 175-pounder last season.

Cobb will advance to the state tournament at St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus Friday and Saturday.

HE WAS the top-seeded wrestler in the 185-pound division and posted four victories to nab the district championship. He pinned Dick, of Zanesville, defeated Roush, of Dover, 11-0, Sarap, of Steubenville, 10-0, and Anderson, of Marietta, 4-0.

Head coach Chuck Wallace's Panthers placed eighth in a field of 14 teams in the district meet.

Marietta, with four individual champions, took top honors with 104 points and Dover placed second with two champs and 99½ points. Steubenville garnered 84 points for a third place finish followed in order by Lancaster (60½), Chillicothe (46½), East Liverpool (42), Cambridge (31), Miami Trace (28), Zanesville (25½), New Philadelphia (24½), Wintersville (18½), Athens (14½), Portsmouth (7½), and Meigs (4½).

Miami Trace also received a sparkling effort from senior co-captain Keith Earley in the 145-pound division. Earley, the No. 2 seeded wrestler in his class, notched a second place finish as he was defeated by Brunney, of Lancaster, in the finals.

Earley won three of four matches in the district tourney and finished the season with a glittering 22-4 record.

The Panthers also got a pair of wins from Rick Cassey in the 119-pound division and 126-pounder Alan Fennig. Cassey ended the season with a 14-8 record and Fennig has an 18-8 log.

BGSU, Toledo share 2nd place

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — As far as Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley is concerned, the Falcons' 59-40 basketball loss to Toledo Saturday night didn't change a thing. He figures his squad made great strides this season.

"I'm tremendously proud of our young kids this year," Haley said. "We went from last to second place and we didn't have a losing season. Our players learned a lot about what it takes to win this season."

Actually, Bowling Green was forced to share second place in the Mid-American Conference standings with Toledo as a result of Saturday night's game. Both teams finished the season with 7-5 league marks.

Conference champion Miami (9-2) downed celler-dweller Western Michigan 71-68, while Kent State (5-7) surprised Ohio University 75-71 to move ahead of Central Michigan (4-6) into fifth place in the standings behind the Bobcats (6-5). Central Michigan was a 70-67 victim of non-conference foe Akron Saturday.

Toledo, led by Tom Kozelko with 21 points and 16 rebounds, solved the Bowling Green zone and jumped off to a 36-20 halftime advantage. Kozelko finished with a career total of 1,561 points.

Cornelius Cash paced the Falcons with 15 points before fouling out with 6:32 remaining to play.

Miami beat Western Michigan from the free throw line, making 17 of 22 charity tosses to 14 of 30 by the Broncos. Both teams had 27 field goals.

Phil Lumpkin led the Redskins with 22 points and Frank Ayers was the top shooter for Western Michigan with 19.

Kent State came back from a 23-8 deficit in the first half to edge Ohio University. The score was deadlocked 35-35 at intermission and the Golden Flashes went ahead for good at 44-43 with 15:12 left.

Rick Gates and Fred Walter sparked the Kent attack with 21 and 19 points, respectively. Bill Brown paced the Bobcats with 18.

NCAA tournament-bound Akron's victory was its 12th straight, upping its record to 20-4. For Central Michigan, the game set three records. Ben Kelso became the top scorer in school history with a career total of 1,627, Dan Roundfield had a season record 346 rebounds and Dirk Dunbar had a season total of 471 points, tops ever for a freshman.

In other Ohio college basketball action Saturday, Ohio State edged Illinois 65-64 after seeing a 21-point halftime lead diminish. Allan Hornyak led the Buckeyes with 20 points, while Illinois' Nick Weatherspoon, leading scorer in the Big Ten, was held to nine.

Dayton defeated Xavier 87-81 as Donald Smith pumped in 22 points and Rick Thalls and Mike Sylvester added 21 and 18, respectively. The Flyers finished the season at 13-13 for the second straight year. Xavier is 3-22 with one game left.

Elsewhere, Wright State beat Cedarville 89-78 and Ashland downed Tri-State, Ind. 77-68.

Pete Rose no-show for Reds

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Pete Rose remained a holdout today as the Cincinnati Reds entered their fifth day of spring training.

The defending National League champions announced the signing of shortstop Dave Concepcion Sunday, leaving Rose and outfielder Cesar Geronimo as the only unsigned Reds.

Geronimo has not appeared at camp, but is not considered a holdout.

Rose and the Reds apparently reached a deadlock with the two parties about $2,500 apart.

Rose thinks $120,000 would be a fair wage for 1973, based partly on the fact he's batted over .300 eight consecutive seasons.

The Reds are reported to have offered about $117,500.

As the impasse continued, a retired Cincinnati maintenance and machine shop foreman, Herbert Johns, proposed a solution for the Reds, and Rose.

Tongue twisters train auctioneers

By TOM SIEBERT

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Can you say: Theopolis Thistel the famous thistle sifter, after sifting a sieve full of unsifted thistles, thrust 3,000 thistles through the thick of his thumb?

Or how about: Betty Botter bought some butter but she said, "This butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter it will make my batter bitter." So she bought a bit of better butter, put it in her bitter batter, made her bitter batter better — so it's better Betty Botter bought a bit of better butter.

For a breather try counting up to 100 and back by 2½s.

Now memorize the recite them quickly and without a hitch and you're ready for Scott Pittullo's auctioneering class at Lamar Community College.

These and other zany chants are practiced each week by a dozen students in the non-credit course. The school says it may base a one-year occupational program on the course next year.

The reason for tongue twisters and counting up and down by quarters and halves, says Pittullo, is that rhythm is the secret of an auctioneer's success.

"We use and use and use the drills till they're so tired they don't know whether they can go anymore or not. But if you don't get your dollars and quarters in the right place and you lose your rhythm.

"It isn't so much the speed that makes you think an auctioneer's fast, as his rhythm. The excitement in the chant causes people to bid."

Besides the fun of it, the course also has a practical use the instructor says, since virtually every product in the world is sold by auction at some point — including tobacco, farm goods, antiques, jewelry, rugs, furniture and even real estate.

More animals, birds believed endangered

WASHINGTON (AP) — All of Australia's big kangaroos will be classified as endangered species under a proposal by Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton. If the listing stands up it will be illegal to import the animals or their hides.

In all, Morton would add 18 animals and birds to the list of foreign endangered species, including 17 from Australia. Eight more were proposed for the American list, including the eastern cougar, long cionsidered extinct but now reported occasionally, the Utah prairie dog, northern Rocky Mountain wolf, Mississippi sandhill crane, Puerto Rican whip-poor-will and Santa Barbara song sparrow.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Difficulty in Swallowing

I have noticed that for the past few years I have more and more difficulty in swallowing large pieces of meat and, particularly, dry food.

How do I go about finding the reason for this so that this unpleasant feeling will not get worse?

Mr. P. N., Ga.

Dear Mr. N.:

The problem of difficulty in swallowing is known as dysphagia.

Often, people can actually point to the exact spot in the chest where they think the food becomes stuck. This is helpful to the doctor who now pursues his studies to find the basic reason.

Occasionally, children are born with congenital defects and anatomical deformities. Their difficulty in swallowing is recognized immediately and steps must be take to remove the condition.

Adults who develop dysphagia may have obstruction for a variety of reasons.

Sometimes, there occurs a small pouch, or diverticulum, of the esophagus that carries food from the mouth to the stomach. A weakness of the muscular wall of the esophagus is responsible for this.

There are also many neurological and unusual medical conditions which, strangely, are responsible for difficulty in swallowing.

A hiatus hernia and a local inflammation of the lining of the esophagus are other reasons for the problem you describe.

There are many precise and excellent methods for studying the reasons for dysphagia.

It is possible to do the most delicate studies of the lining of the esophagus by X-ray. An instrument can be placed directly into the esophagus. Through this, biopsies of tissue can be made.

X-ray movies can show the speed with which food passes through. With these and other exact tests, the basic cause for dysphagia is easily determined. Only in this way can persistent difficulty in swallowing be adequately treated.

I had an accident and broke three ribs. Then I was told that air seeped around my lungs.

I am only 18 years old. Does this mean that I will be left with a permanent hole in my lungs?

J.S., Pa.

Dear J.:

I will try to clarify the problem you present and help reassure you that this condition will probably not affect you for the rest of your life.

You have had what is known as pneumothorax, meaning an accumulation of air around the lungs that temporarily stays pocketed within the chest.

An injury to the chest wall, with or without a fracture of the ribs, can cause air to escape from the lungs and lie in the chest wall.

There are also a number of complicated lung conditions that can cause spontaneous pneumothorax without any related injury.

Sometimes artificial pneumothorax is created for the treatment of some types of tuberculosis.

You need not be concerned that you have been left with any permanent problem, once the condition is healed.

Opening lead - king of hearts.

I have a letter from a Seattle fan in which he expresses his admiration for the way I bid Hand No. 30 in the world championship match between Sweden and the United States in 1953.

Bursting with curiosity, I looked up Hand No. 30. When I examined the bidding (I was East), it turned out that my entire contribution consisted of passing four times in a row! This was quite a letdown, I must say, but I cite the hand anyhow because it has several points of interest.

My partner, John Crawford, opened the bidding with a club. I had no good reason to respond, so I did what most players would do: I passed.

The Swedish South couldn't bring himself to sell out for a club, so he bid a spade. Crawford doubled for takeout and North helped me out of an unpleasant predicament by bidding two diamonds.

I passed, of course, but Crawford persisted — perfectly justifiably, I might add — by doubling again.

At this point it looked as though Crawford wanted me to bid hearts or clubs, but the thought of naming either suit revolted me. I decided to pass and take my chances against two diamonds doubled.

This proved to be a lucky decision when South ran to two spades. Again Crawford doubled, but this time, when I passed, I was on considerably firmer ground.

The outcome was much better than I had a right to hope. South when down four — 700 points. At the other table, the Swedish East-West pair landed in three notrump and went down one. As a result, the U.S. team gained 750 points on the deal.

Mrs. Meir rips Arabs

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir says she hopes the slaying of three diplomats, including two Americans, in the Sudan by Black September terrorists will spur tougher anti-terrorist measures by European nations that have given in to "Arab blackmail."

"The difficulty is that Arab blackmail has paid off," Mrs. Meir said Sunday. "Of all that has happened after Munich, after Bangkok, today in Europe there is only one Arab terrorist in prison and a few interrogated in Austria."

"All others who were detained—some in prison, some who didn't ever receive sentencing—all are free. The Arab countries were happy to receive them—Syria, Libya, even Lebanon."

She spoke at a tightly guarded dinner meeting with persons affiliated with the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations. Mrs. Meir, 74, was flanked by two dozen Secret Service and Israeli agents as she arrived for the dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. Meir said European countries fear that, if they deal with Arab terrorists sternly, they will be threatened with seizure of airliners. "So the best thing is to get them out, which means you send the terrorists back to try again," she said.

President given 'Heart Award'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has been awarded the American Heart Association's "Heart of the Year" award for "consistent support and encouragement of voluntary programs combatting the nation's most serious health problem — heart and blood vessel diseases."

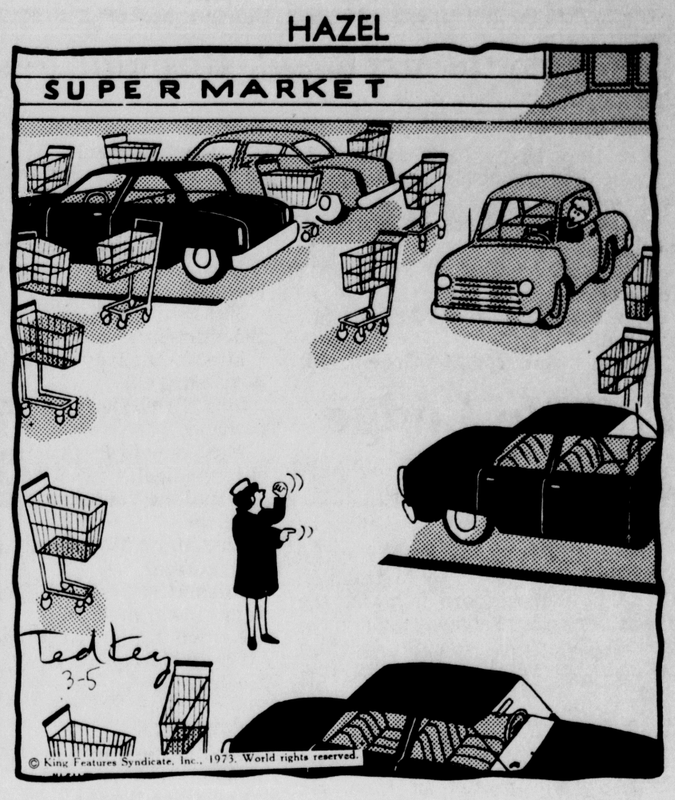

The five major tourist areas in Jamaica are Montego Bay, Kingston, Port Antonio, Ocho Rios and Mandeville.

Fayette Lodge given praise

Top rating was assured Fayette Masonic Lodge No. 107 by Malcolm H. Grady, of Williamsport, following the annual inspection Saturday night in the Masonic Temple, S. Main St., before a gathering of approximately 130 persons.

Grady, the inspecting officer, is the district deputy grand master and representing Dale E. Fox, of Cincinnati, grand master of Ohio. He complimented the officers of Fayette Lodge on the impressiveness and caliber of their exemplification of the ritual and noted that it was conducted within the rules and regulations prescribed by the Grand Lodge. He said he would give Fayette Lodge top rating in his report.

The officers of Fayette Lodge are Lester Bower, worshipful master; Harold Speelman, senior warden; David E. Moore, junior warden; Forrest M. Ellis, treasurer; Russell Giebelhouse, secretary; Myron Priest, senior deacon; Alford Carr, junior deacon; John Halliday, senior steward; Ernest Stanforth, junior steward; Russell Goldsberry, chaplain; and Alfred Browne, tyler.

Distinguished Masons present included 13 past masters of Fayette Lodge, Hughey L. Thompson, Russell Giebelhouse, William C. Allen, Sr., Ronald K. Cornwell, Denzil L. Leggett, Walter D. Haines, Gale L. Helms, William G. Ward, Robert K. Moore, William E. Copas, Kenneth L. Chaney, also a Knight of York Cross of Honor, and John A Leland and Virgil E. Lowe, both past district deputy grand masters.

Represented at the inspection were one lodge out of the state; three outside of the district and 19 of the 21 in the district, 18 of them by their worshipful masters.

Dinner was prepared and served by members of Royal Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, before the inspection.

The invocation was by Chaplain Goldsberry.

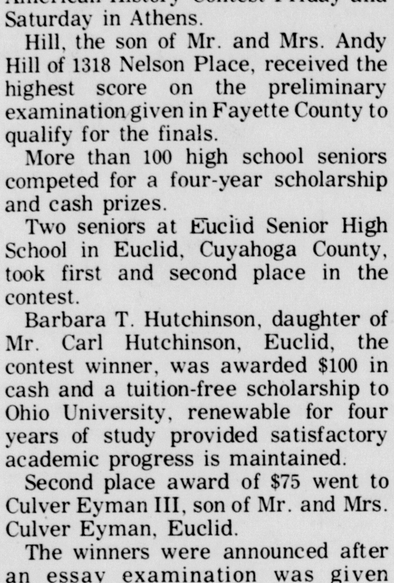

Home accidents hurt 2 persons

Two persons were treated at Memorial Hospital Sunday for injuries suffered in accidents at their homes.

Steven White, 20, of 627 S. Main St., suffered a broken left arm when his car fell from a jack while he was removing a fender. Police said the car body struck his arm as it fell. He was released after treatment.

Stanley Greene, 45, Rt. 1, New Holland, suffered injuries to his left knee and arm when a motorcycle he was riding in his back yard upset. Sheriff's deputies said Greene lost control of the cycle on wet grass. He was released after treatment.

STEVEN HILL

WSHS student wins citation in history contest

Steven Hill, a Washington Senior High School student, received a superior achievement award and an honorable mention certificate for his score in the finals of Ohio University's American History Contest Friday and Saturday in Athens.

Hill, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hill of 1318 Nelson Place, received the highest score on the preliminary examination given in Fayette County to qualify for the finals.

More than 100 high school seniors competed for a four-year scholarship and cash prizes.

Two seniors at Euclid Senior High School in Euclid, Cuyahoga County, took first and second place in the contest.

Barbara T. Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. Carl Hutchinson, Euclid, the contest winner, was awarded $100 in cash and a tuition-free scholarship to Ohio University, renewable for four years of study provided satisfactory academic progress is maintained.

Second place award of $75 went to Culver Eyman III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Culver Eyman, Euclid.

The winners were announced after an essay examination was given Friday on the Ohio University campus to approximately 100 finalists chosen from among 8,000 Ohio high school seniors who took a preliminary objective test Jan. 24 and 25. Friday's test consisted of three interpretive questions on Alexander Hamilton, the Civil War and its causes and social services and the welfare state.

Progressive School children take part in bowling tourney

Eleven children from the Fayette Progressive School participated in the Central Region bowling tournament for retarded children and the handicapped Friday in Marion.

The event, sponsored by the Ohio Athletic Association, attracted 215 participants, approximately 100 more than turned out last year. The state bowling tourney for the retarded and handicapped will be held in Marion next year.

Retarded children and handicapped from 14 counties and the Orient and State Schools participated in the 16-event program.
